Economists say no price relief in sight

WASHINGTON AP — Two of President Ford's top economic advisers say consumers won't get any significant relief from the nation's soaring inflation rate this year.

The gloomy predictions came from departing presidential economic counselor Kenneth Rush and Chairman Alan Greenspan of the Council of Economics Advisers.

Despite months of anti-in-flation effort, including record high interest rates most of this year, these advisers say the earliest any real progress can be made is next year.

These views mark a major retreat from Nixon administration predictions that the rate of inflation, now about 11 per cent, would decline to 7 per cent by the end of this year. This target was revised upward a month ago to 8 per cent.

Rush, who was confirmed by the Senate on Thursday as ambassador to France, indicated in an interview that the inflation rate may still be above 10 per cent when 1974 draws to a close.

In other economic developments on Thursday:

—Senate Democrats voted to send President Ford several economic policy proposals for consideration at the upcoming economic summit meeting.

—Leaders of the nation's housing industry attending an economic minisummit in Atlanta made a bid to exempt their industry from anti-inflationary tight money policies.

—The Federal Power Commission staff recommended a single nationwide price on certain natural gas, a move virtually certain to increase gas prices.

—The wholesale price index for August was released showing a 3.9 per cent leap, an indication that inflation may be getting worse.

—Ford Motor Co., anounced a 7.4 per cent price hike on its 1975 model cars.

Greenspan told labor leaders meeting at the White House on Wednesday that "in the immediate period ahead it does not appear as though the inflation rate is turning down. . . ."

Greenspan said "we hope' it will decline in 1975.

Both Rush and Greenspan cited the prospect of higher food costs, resulting in part from a Midwest drought, as being largely responsible for the worsening inflation outlook.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon was not quite so pessimistic as they were, but he indicated to a newsman that it was unlikely the inflation rate would be below 8.5 per cent this year, and could be higher.

The report that wholesale prices increased 3.9 per cent in August alone was an indication that inflation may be getting worse instead of better.

The August increase was the second highest monthly increase in 28 years, exceeded only by a 6.2 per cent increase in August of last year after price controls were removed.

The increase occurred throughout the economy. But agricultural products led the way with a 7.6 per cent increase, followed by industrial commodities, which were up 2.5 per cent.

The increase in wholesale prices for three months ending in August was at an annual rate of 37.3 per cent. The increase from a year earlier was 17.8 per cent.

Prairie considers city sales tax

EAST PRAIRIE - A one-cent sales tax was discussed Thursday night by the City Council as a possible solution to the city's financial problems.

Councilman Jones Hedge said over 100 cities in Missouri have adopted the one-cent tax. He noted that surveys have shown that not one business has lost money or that customers have been driven out of town by the tax.

Hedge also said he believed the tax was more fair to all citizens than an increase in property taxes would be and added that surrounding towns are also considering the sales tax proposal.

The Chamber of Commerce, in a letter to the council, has requested a statement on what money raised by the tax would be used for. A meeting between the chamber and council will be held at the earliest opportunity, according to Mayor Lawand A. Douglas. She said if the decision is made to present the tax proposal to the citizens, it could hopefully be placed on the November general election ballot in order to save the expense of a special election.

Most of the council members appeared in favor of the tax increase, but it was noted by Councilman Marion "Bud" Morgan that he would not be in favor of the tax if it placed a hardship on elderly citizens.

Mrs. Sarah Sanders, Miss Mary Moore, Mrs. Robbie Helen Gregory and Mrs. Halline Cole were present at the meeting. Mrs. Sanders expressed concern and disappointment over losing City Manager Bob Kakac and asked what the council's plans were for replacing the city manager. She and the others were told that some applications for the position have been received, but this would be discussed at a later date.

City Attorney Fielding Potasknick said a city manager must be hired or an interim manager from the city will have to be appointed to conduct city business, as long as a city management form of government is still in effect. This issue could be voted on again in July, 1975.

Potashnick said the city would revert back to its fourth class city status if city management is voted out. He also said it would place restrictions in bonding, taxing and other governmental powers and would also have some effect on any federal assistance the city would be qualified to receive.

An interim manager must be a resident of East Prairie and cannot be a member of the council, nor can the mayor be in charge of the city. While there can be a period of time that the city can be without a manager, Potashnick said it would not be a practical measure, since no hiring or firing of any party could be done during this period.

Mrs. Halline Cole asked why the council accepted Kakac's resignation so quickly without taking a vote on increasing his salary. Mayor Douglas said East Prairie could not compete with the city of Booneville money-wise, adding that money had to be borrowed in July in order to meet payroll expenditures.

Miss Mary Moore inquired of city plans to remedy the sewer problem at the intersection of North and Williams St. Mrs. Douglas said the council plans to apply for funds from the Environmental Protection Agency for sewer improvements.

Police officers Tom Shemoniax, Bill Grissom and Jim Baker were present at the meeting and presented a proposal for the formation of a police cadet program for boys ranging in age from 13-17. Strong council approval was given to the proposed project and the men said they would seek additional information and report to the council at a later date.

COLDWATER -- Two persons were injured in a one-car accident at 9:15 a.m. Thursday on Highway 67 four miles north of Coldwater.

The highway patrol said the accident occurred when Mabel Hinkle, 48, of Des Arc lost control of her northbound car which ran off the road.

The driver received serious injuries, and a passenger, Clarence Miller, 87, of Des Arc, suffered minor injuries.

Both were taken to Madison County Memorial Hospital at Fredericktown.

Former Wyatt man back in custody

CAIRO, Ill. - A Wyatt, Mo., native is back in custody after almost a year of freedom following arrest by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents in Indianapolis, Ind.

Arrested for failing to return to a North Carolina prison, after being released on a visit permit on Aug. 3, 1973 to visit his grandchildren, was Chares P. "Rocky' Rothschild.

The 49-year-old former Cairo Policeman, juvenile officer and football referee had been serving a life term for the robbery- death of a mountain merchant at Shut-in, N.C., near the Tennessee line.

Rothschild made national headlines on July 4, 1958, when he confessed to the murder of a merchant in Jefferson, Ga., just before a house painter was due to be executed for the slaying.

He served 10 years of a life sentence in Georgia for that crime. His confession spared the life of James Fulton Foster of Greer, S.C., who was to have been executed. Foster then received a directed verdict of acquittal in his third trial for the slaying of a merchant, Charles Drake Sr.

Rothschild had been in prison in Columbia, S.C., on a burglary conviction when he signed a statement that he had killed Drake at Drake's home two years earlier.

He was paroled in Georgia then trasferred to the North Carolina prison system five years ago to serve life for the robbery-death of a merchant in Shunt-in, N.C.

Rothschild was fired from the Cairo police force in 1953, and he then became a juvenile officer with the Illinois Youth Commission. He served in that capacity during the middle 1950s.

While on the Cairo police force Rothschild reportedly drove a motorcycle and checked parking meters, shortly after meters were installed in Cairo.

He lived most of his life in Cairo, after moving from Wyatt at the age of 6.

He was never arrested in Cairo, but in 1958 was arrested for crimes he had allegedly committed in Georgia and South Carolina.

He was serving a life sentence for first degree burglary at the time of his escape. The merchant died of a heart attack during the robbery.

Commerce audit completed

JEFFERSON CITY - State Auditor John D. Ashcroft has completed and sent to the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration the audit of a disaster claim submitted by the city of Commerce.

The report recommends reimbursement of $2,890 under guidelines set by the federal-state disaster assistance agreement.

Ashcroft, through an agreement between the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) and the state of Missouri, audits work and repairs completed by political subdivisions as a result of last year's floods and high winds.

Commerce had submitted a claim of $3,127 for expenses incurred in performing repairs. OEP approved an estimated amount of $2,890 also. Ashcroft's audit comments on the additional claims and recommends that OEP make a final determination on the eligible reimbursement.

OEP retains final review and approval authority, but cannot make reimbursements until Ashcroft audits the completed work.

This year's program will include slides taken of the families to be recognized and their farms. The Jaycees Outstanding Young Farmer will be presented, along with a $100 savings bond.

Bloomfield man killed

DEXTER - E. R. Dukes, 60, of Bloomfield Route Two was killed at approximately 6:30 a.m. today when he was accidentally struck by a fork lift truck prior to starting his first day of employment at the Swift and Co. processing plant located at 1001 E. Stoddard St.

Stoddard County Coroner Ray Rainey said the accident occurred while plant superintendent James Hokseh was showing Dukes his duties at the plant.

Dukes then pulled off his coat and took it to his car. While returning from the car he stepped directly into the path of a forklift truck operated by plant employe Amos Bell.

Dukes was taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital, where he was pronounced dead. His body was then taken to Chiles-Cooper Funeral Home in Bloomfield, where funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Certain parcels will not be on county tax books

BENTON -- The Scott County Court decided Thursday not to place parcels that can't be described in the usual manner of describing land on the county real estate tax books.

The county judges said developers of subdivisions in the county who haven't filed a survey plat with the recorder must do so.

According to the judges, the revised Missouri statutes require subdivisions to be surveyed and recorded. By doing this, it protects future landowners.

Presiding Judge Les Lankford stated that if a subdivision has not been surveyed, it will be up to the court to hire the county surveyor to plat the ground, with the cost being added to the tax payer's bill.

The court announced that it has received payment for the blacktopping of a road in the Vester Phillip's subdivision adjoining Morley, but reported the payment was $120 short.

The total cost of the blacktopping was $1,800, and the court received a check in the amount of $1,680.

Jack Holder of Illmo, a trash hauler, told the court he would try to pay the $1,800 bill he owes for dumping refuse from Cape Girardeau at the county sanitary landfill by Jan. 1.

Holder was informed by the court last week that he would no longer be permitted to dump at the Cape Girardeau refuse because he had accumulated an unpaid bill of $1,800 following an agreement he made last December to pay $5 for each load of refuse he dumped.

Following negotiations with Holder, the court agreed to reduce his bill to $1,540 but will not permit him to dump refuse from Cape Girardeau until the bill is paid.

Man held for possession of 4 pounds marijuana

BENTON - Arthur Wayne Presley of Oran is being held in Scott County Jail today following his arrest Thursday afternoon for possession of four pounds of marijuana.

Presley was arrested after Chief of Police Dolph Webb of Oran and Dave Sanders, Scott County deputy, received a tip that he would be receiving a package in the mail this week that contained drugs.

Sanders said that after receiving the information he contacted the postal inspectors at Cape Girardeau to place a mail cover on anything addressed to Presley.

At 1:15 p.m. Friday, Chief Webb and Sanders were notified that a package had come in by United Parcel Post addressed to Presley.

On the first attempt to deliver the package to Presley's home another man came to the door and the UPS employe made up another name to whom he was trying to deliver the package.

Later in the afternoon a second attempt was made at the home but no one was there.

According to Sanders, he knew where Presley was employed in Sikeston so he rode in the parcel post truck down to where he worked.

When the UPS employe arrived at the business, he said he had a package to deliver to Presley and according to Sanders Presley signed for the package.

Sanders said after the UPS employe left the building, he asked Presley where his boss was and followed him through the building.

He said he then identified himself and told Presley he had received information the package contained drugs and asked him to open it.

Presley told him it contained work clothes from California and after opening the package officers found the marijuana and an unidentified white powder.

The substance has been turned over to the Southeast Missouri Law Enforcement Assistant Council Crime Lab at Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau for identification.

PRESS FREEDOM IN PERU

Freedom, including freedom of the press, is indivisible. So it is that the recent seizure of Peru's eight major independent newspapers by that country's military regime is a threat to freedom of the press everywhere.

"Without question this is the greatest crisis the Inter American Press Association has faced since Fidel Castro took over the press of Cuba 14 years ago," wrote James B. Canel, general manager of the IAPA, to affiliated newspapers. Canel's colleague who is head of IAPA, Robert Brown, put the meaning of the takeover succinctly: "The people of Peru are the losers."

The press takeover by dictator Juan Velasco came after the government had already taken control of radio, television, a magazine and another newspaper. It came about when police and troops in full battle gear surrounded the newspaper offices. Their military preparations were appropriate to the occasion: truth is indeed a fearful enemy of oppressors.

The takeover, of the eight papers, which are now being run by government officials, followed Velasco's anger over critizism of his regime's flirtation with Marxism. He has in his own brutal way won this round, and he may win the next one as well.

But Velasco's days are numbered to a precious few. Truth is a invaluable commodity, and our hope is that the people of Peru will demand to own it once more, whatever the cost.

Americans suffering from high blood pressure - an estimated 23 million - will be interested to know that drugs found helpful in treating the disease are currently available in Great Britain. But bureaucrats at the Food and Drug Administration refuse to approve them, despite the fact that they have been safe and effective in British testing. This shocking situation was outlined last week by a government doctor, Dr. Edward R. Freis, senior medical investigator at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Washington, who was deservedly outraged: 60,000 Americans die annually from high blood pressure.

More than two weeks have passed since the U. S. Supreme Court refused Judge Otto Kerner's appeal of his 1973 conviction for mail fraud, tax evasion, conspiracy and perjury, yet not one member of the liberal- dominated House Judiciary Committee has voiced a desire to save the taxpayers $42,500 per year by impeaching the soon-to-be imprisoned ex-Illinois governor.

Under the Constitution a federal judge cannot be removed from office except by death, resignation or impeachment. Thus, although he has been involved in no work as a Court of Appeals judge, and has no staff or office since his 1971 indictment, Kerner remains on the federal payroll.

It is quite conceivable that Kerner, who has consistently refused to resign from his judgeship, could go to prison, yet remain on the federal payroll. Unless, of course, public indignation makes Judiciary Chairman Peter Rodino (D.-N. J.) take action to remove the once- powerful Illinois politico in the Democratic party.

CAUGHT OUT OF UNIFORM

Even George Washington had trouble with "streakers." An aide's book containing Washington's orders to the Continental Army in Massachusetts is the source of this footnote to history, dated Aug. 22, 1775:

"The General does not mean to discourage the practice of bathing while the weather is warm ... but he expressly forbids any person doing it at or near the bridge in Cambridge, where it has been observed and complained of that many men, lost to all sense of decency and common modesty,are running about naked upon the bridge while passengers and even ladies of the first fashion in the neighborhood are passing over it, as if they meant to glory in their shame."

The directive was discovered by archivist Howard H. Wehmann of the National Archives in Washington in the course of researching material for the 1976 Bicentennial and reported in the National Observer.

May it serve as the last comment on the streaking fad.

A NEED FOR PSYCHOLOGICAL CONTROL

Once again an attempt to persuade the Missouri General Assembly that psychologists should be licensed by the state appears to have failed. This inaction leaves Missouri without official control over an important scientific discipline.

As a practical matter psychologists are licensed. But the certification is done by the Missouri Psychological Association. The association's role is better than nothing. But it is not a substitute for state sanction. The association has led in the effort to get a bill passed that would establish state licensing procedure.

Most states, including Kansas, regulate this profession. Even though the opposition has not been visible in recent years the legislation in Missouri seems to get bogged down. In past sessions the House has acted favorably but the Senate has been the stumbling block.

In the current Legislature a House bill has been approved by a committee and is awaiting debate on the floor. Many bills are ahead of the proposal and it appears unlikely that it could clear the legislative process before adjournment late in April.

Psychology, involving as it does the human mind and emotions, is far too important an endeavor to leave untended. If the legislation is not enacted into law this year, as it appears it will not be, supporters should make a new try next year. Perhaps legislators will realize the significance of the matter eventually.

AMERICAN'S FARM STRENGTH

An agricultural milestone was passed in 1971 when the American Farm Bureau Federation rang up its two millionth member family. This is almost certain to have a substantial influence on the continuing growth and stability of U.S. agriculture in the years to come.

It is a tribute to the American Farm Bureau Federation that it has grown steadily in membership during an evolutionary period in agriculture which has seen the number of farms decline from 6.8 million in 1935 to about 2.9 million in 1971. Moreover, the policies and programs of the Farm Bureau have played no small part in improving agricultural efficiency so that as the number of farmers declined food production in the U.S. is now greater than it has ever been. The Farm Bureau represents -- and advocates -- basic principles of agricultural independence. And its members support a market-oriented farm economy. They believe in a minimum of governmen controls and regulations. Spokesmen for the Farm Bureau have reiterated again and again their support of federal farm legislation that would relieve farmers and all of the nation's taxpayers of costly politically- managed farm programs.

In passing the two- million member mark, the American Farm Bureau Federation gives evidence not only of its own vitality and continuing purpose but provides encouragement to those who believe agriculture and the American farm remain one of the strongest bulwarks of individual liberty and a primary source of this country's abundance.

FARMERS MUST LIVE TOO

Food prices have risen, but before condemning farmers and ranchers and threatening them with a wave of controls, a few facts must be considered if the nation whishes to continue eating in the style to which it has become accustomed.

Foremost among these facts is that farm prices still remain at preinflation low levels. Food prices have risen because of inflationary increases in handling costs. The plight of the farmer is well expressed in an article appearing on the editorial page of a major daily newpaper. It is pointed out that, "Farmers and ranchers are expected to stay on the land rather than join the job-seekers in the city.... On the other hand, farmers and ranchers are not expected to make more money ever because if they do the cost of food will go up. When beef prices rise to levels of 20 years ago, the protest is loud and clear... Bear in mind that farmers and ranchers are consumers, too, and as consumers their expenses have gone up more than 100 percent during the same period that prices they receive for their products have remained stable."

The conclusion reached in the article quoted above is much to the point--the food we buy today is one of the best bargains in the marketplace, ".... even if beef prices have climbed up to 1952 levels."

GOOD TAX NEIGHBOR

Tax increases at the state government level reached an uprecedented $5 billion in 1971. The inexorable upward march of local taxation now threatens home ownership, local business enterprises and the welfare of every individual in the community. This fact makes immeasurably more significiant the items in local newspapers recording the tax payments at the community level by local industries.

Among the largest of these taxpayers are investor-owned power companies. From the Pacific to the Atlantic and from Canada to Mexico, pick up the local newspaper at taxpaying time and there will very likely be an item on the taxes paid by the local power company. In the Sandersville, Georgia, Progress, such as item appears telling how an investor-owner, taxpaying electric company in its area paid $36,533 in local 1971 property taxes. The $36,000 was part of approximately $18,850,000 in property taxes paid by the Georgia company at the state, municipal and county level. Some $6.3 million in tax payments were made to 409 cities, towns and communities with which the company has franchise agreements, under which it pays each municipality a percentage of its gross revenue in addition to property tax payments. The company's total tax bill for 1971 including federal, state, county and municipal payments exceeded $55 million.

This is just one company of hundred of investor-owned electric utilities throughout the U.S. that helps to make soaring local tax burdens easier for the average citizen to bear.

THE SAXBE ALERT

Atty. Gen. William Saxbe has told the nation that the police and courts have worked hard to control crime but that the effort has not succeeded. The crime problem, he said, is something the people must become conscious of and make citizens' efforts to curtail. He had no specific suggestions but at least the attorney general is thinking along the right lines. Make the people aware of the dangers and they will get behind law enforcement efforts and the problem will be solved. That is something this column has urged for years.

Mr. Saxbe's comments on the crime picture came in wake of an announcement by the Federal Bureau of Investigation that criminal offenses jumped 15 percent the first quarter of 1974. The figures were in comparison with the same period of 1973. Earlier Mr. Saxbe had announced that the crime rate for all of 1973 showed a six percent increase over 1972.

The attorney general decried the decrease in public morality. He said that many criminals had found that "crime does pay." He urged stronger punishment for those who are convicted of criminal offenses. In this he is correct. The multiple offender must be kept off the streets.

Citizen cooperation with police has made some headway in recent years but we must step up this process. In many cities, patrolmen assigned to beats meet with residents and merchants to discuss the problems of crime and security and this is paying dividends. Citizens are told to mark property so it can be easily identified and reclaimed from arrested felons. There are many ways this beat relationship is healthy. The crusade against crime needs to get off the ground and get the felon in jail. HLH

Inside Labor

Challenging the President; Ford Caught in Middle Of Labor's Tough Civil War.

WASHINGTON — For President Ford, this is the fifth season, the worst of all possible times. With expletives deleted, his counterinflation summits, mini and maximum, are now being called "bull" by the angered Teamsters chief Frank Fitzsimmons, who last week decided to reject the President's invitation to the Wednesday White House labor conference; personally boycott the session, and make it perfectly obvious by flying out to a regional truck drivers parley.

He asked his peppery second-in- command "Dusty" Miller, the Brotherhood's general secretary- treasurer, to attend instead. Dusty was delighted. Immediately he did his homework, decided to prepare a statement kicking around Congress for increasing its annual expenses by $48 million and to demand a price rollback with a subsequent wage-price freeze.

Thus Fitz, president of the nation's biggest and most powerful international union, in his own fashion, challenged the President to choose between him and the immovable AFL-CIO president George Meany as the Oval Office's favorite labor chief. Or, at least, most heeded one.

Actually there are a hundred headlines buried in this simple maneuver. It leaves Jerry Ford, at this grim moment, square in the midst of a civil war inside labor which is much like being caught in an Irish hurling game (30 men wielding hockey stick- type shillelaghs). If the Teamsters balk, there appears to be little sense in having some of the mini-summits such as construction industry and transportation. The drivers union could decide not to transport very much at some very critical moments.

Fitzsimmons has a tough hide. But some of Meany's political and intra-union acupuncture is getting to him: In the first place, Meany said the other day that he considers Labor Secretary Peter Brennan, in effect, a nonperson and the Secretary's chair is vacant as far as the AFL-CIO is concerned.

At which point or thereabouts, Mr. Ford's summit staffers proceeded to downgrade Pete Brennan — who is there because the Teamsters sponsored him. At least that's what Dick Nixon told me in the theater one night, oh, so long ago.

For example, those who did the scheduling for the Sept. 11 labor mini- summit put Brennan in for a five-minute presentation between 10 and 10:05 a.m. He also was given some breathing space for the afternoon session. But he was not scheduled to chair any section of the labor conference, in the East Room, even after President Ford left.

That's not much for a cabinet member in his own field of expertise - especially since Mr. Ford had dispatched him to New Zealand during the critical planning stage last week, to attend the funeral of a Prime Minister for reasons not quite apparent to anyone.

Further, other cabinet members are running the mini-summits in their areas. So to Fitz there was no doubt that Meany's distaste for the Labor Secretary resulted in the downgrading of his (Fitzsimmons's) protege.

Actually Fitz is saying to friends that "Ford missed the boat, he should have slapped on some controls to keep prices down immediately or at least given himself the power or asked Congress for control authority. These conferences are just more discussions and nothing will happen at the summit."

All this interplay comes at a particularly sensitive moment for the giant Teamsters organization. Publicly Meany has been rushing to the defense of the tiny United Farm Workers and the fragile Cesar Chavez. There is more here than the names Meany called Fitzsimmons and the truck drivers union at a Chavez luncheon Monday. Meany denounced Teamsters members in the California fields as "scabs." That's like calling the D. A. R. pornographic.

Further, Meany said the Teamsters were the agents of the growers -- meaning the employers. That's rough talk. But not as tough as calling on unions all over the free world to boycott table grapes and non-Chavez lettuce picked by Teamsters members.

Meany actually called on American unions, which are members of International Trade (union) Secretariats, to launch this boycott immediately. Thus, not only are unions everywhere urged to boycott the purchase of such grapes and lettuce in England, France, Germany, Sweden, et al., but Meany's appeal is to foreign longshoremen and transport workers not to unload or transport them inland.

The Teamsters aren't going to stand for such tactics, obviously. Such boycotts could cost them thousands of jobs in the fields, the canneries and on the trucks. Such a concerted anti-Teamster operation could cost them prestige in the international as well as the domestic arena. Further, if the legend of the Teamsters' invincibility is cut jagged, the Teamsters' primacy in the construction field could be paralyzed.

Much of course depends on Meany's success across the world and at home. Meany keeps insisting on the showdown. This is his crusade. So the Teamsters see this as a showdown between him and them.

So Fitzsimmons, though disliking the thought of angering an American President, has begun to operate on the principle that a friend of my enemy is my enemy. The Teamsters Brotherhood may do some boycotting of their own.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: How It Came About

WASHINGTON -- The dramatic events can now be told, which led to the pardoning of Richard Nixon.

The former President didn't participate in the conversations at San Clemente but let his loyal aide Ronald Ziegler do the talking for him.

Not until the parleying had been completed did a taut, troubled Nixon put in an appearance to murmur his thanks. He didn't even mention the pardon. Nor did he ask about the fate of his former aides who face trial on September 30 for the alleged crimes that he no longer can be prosecuted for.

In an earlier column, we detailed the reasons that President Ford granted his predecessor a blanket pardon. The overriding reason, according to our White House sources, was to save Nixon from a possible emotional collapse.

But the President's lawyers, Philip Buchen and Benton Becker, wanted a "contrition statement" from Nixon as part of the pardon agreement.

They were concerned that he might aggravate the Watergate controversy by proclaiming his innocence once it was no longer possible for the courts to establish his guilt. As one White House source put it bluntly: "We wanted to avoid the Ted Agnew bull -- of protesting his innocence all over the country."

The question of contrition was brought up delicately with Nixon's crack criminal attorney Herbert "Jack" Miller. They didn't want to make it a condition of the pardon, so they merely suggested that a cleansing statement from Nixon would be helpful.

On September 5, Becker and Miller flew out to San Clemente for the final negotiations. White House aides say President Ford's parting instructions to Becker were: (1) he should not promise Nixon a pardon but should inform him only that a pardon was possible; and (2) Becker should stress that the Watergate case was an "albatross" which Ford wanted to remove from around his neck so he could concentrate on solving other problems.

The two lawyers arrived at San Clemente at 11 p.m., California time, and immediately went into a three-hour huddle with Ronald Ziegler. After the discussions broke up at 2 a.m., Becker and Miller drank a couple of beers and then retired to guest rooms in the San Clemente compound.

Becker was up at 5:30 a.m. to telephone a progress report to Buchen at the White House. Later the talks resumed in Ziegler's office. Frequently, Ziegler and Miller would slip out of the room for whispered consultations, perhaps with the President. At one point, Becker showed Miller an advance draft of the pardon statement that the President might issue.

An understanding ultimately was reached that a pardon, if the President agreed to it, would be followed by a statement of contrition from San Clemente. The contents, if not the exact language, of the statement were carefully worked out.

The details were also finalized for giving Nixon eventual custody of his presidential tapes and documents, with safeguards to assure that they would be available to the courts.

All the agreements were completed before President Ford's weary emissary sat down with Nixon himself. Before Becker and Miller were ushered into Nixon's office, they were cautioned to keep the meeting informal.

They found Nixon mentally alert but terribly tired and distraught. Ziegler stood at the door while the others sat and talked.

"Thank you for being fair," Nixon murmured to the 36-year- old Becker. "You are a fine young man."

He was pleased with the agreement to give him custody of his presidential papers, but he made no mention of the pardon or the plight of his former aides.

In a few minutes, it was over. History had been made.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: Whispers have reached us that President Ford, while he was Vice President, spent a weekend at Hawaii's fashionable Maunakea Beach Hotel last May at the expense of U.S. Steel's top man in Washington, William G. Whyte. It is true that Whyte paid the bill, which ran over $1,000, because some of his charges had been added to Ford's bill. But we have established that Ford subsequently sent Whyte a check for about $350 once his correct share of the bill had been calculated ... The Greeks are deadly serious about closing their bases to NATO. In the past, the United States routinely flew F5 fighters, purchased by the shah of Iran, to the air base outside Athens on the way to Iran. But the Greek government has now secretly notified Washington that such landings no longer will be permitted. Result: the Pentagon is preparing to crate the fighters and fly them in C5 cargo planes to the shah ...

The defense ministers of several European nations will come to the United States this fall to inspect the small YF-16 and YF-17 fighter planes. At stake is several billion dollars worth of business, which could go to the United States or France ... Belgian officials have notified the French, according to intelligence reports, that they would look more favorably upon France's Mirage F1 fighters if Paris would cease its stubborn ways and participate more fully in the NATO logistics system.

Ann witnesses operation done under acupuncture

Today I saw it for the first time. As a delegate of the American Medical Association, I witnessed an operation performed under acupuncture. It was a thyroidectomy. The patient was a woman, age 34. She had one needle between each thumb and index finger, and one in each wrist, all connected to an electric stimulator. The operating room was not air- conditioned and the patient was perspiring profusely. A nurse periodically mopped the patient's face with a damp cloth. Although I was dressed in surgical garb and mask, they allowed me to carry a fan -- the same one I had used the previous day when we visited a pigsty in a commune.

I was standing less than a foot from the patient's head and proceeded to fan her. She gave me a pleasant smile and said in Chinese, "Thank you very much." I asked her if she felt any pain. She replied, "No, just a little numb."

Dr. Claude Welch, the distinguished surgeon from Mass. General in Boston, and President of the American College of Surgeons, said the goiter was very large and the surgical team was doing a fine job.

We witnessed another acupuncture operation, however, which did not go so well. The patient was having part of her lung removed. Dr. Pepper Jenkins, of Parkland Hospital in Dallas and former President of the American Society of Anesthesiologists, stood at the elbow of the doctor in charge of monitoring the equipment. Midway through the operation it became apparent that the patient was in serious trouble. Dr. Jenkins immediately became part of the team. He helped administer the oxygen and the patient was given an injection of Demerol. We checked later that day and learned that she had "made it" but it was a very close call.

Much has been written about acupuncture as the new miracle anesthesia. The members of our delegation agreed unanimously that it has merit in selected cases, but they believe acupuncture is more an analgesic (pain reducer) than an anesthetic, and it is not likely to become widely used in Western surgery.

As Dr. Michael DeBakey pointed out when he visited The People's Republic several months ago, only about one-third of the surgical patients are suitable candidates. They must be stoic in nature, have a suggestible bent of mind (in the same sense that some people are not suitable subjects for hypnosis) and they must be in reasonably good physical condition.

It should be remembered that acupuncture has been used as a "cure" in China for centuries, but as an anesthetic it has been in use only since 1958. Moreover, it was virtually discontinued in 1960 when Liu Shao-Ch'i and other counter- revisionists deemed it "unscientific and of no practical value." In 1966, Mao ordered the technique revived and used in all hospitals and rural areas.

The Chinese physicians with whom we spoke made no extravagant claims. They told us they use acupuncture for surgery in only about 15 per cent of their major operations.

"How does it happen that you have six going on this morning?" asked Dr. John Cowan, former Navy Admiral, now A.M.A.'s Director of International Medicine.

"Because you American doctors are visiting us," was the frank reply.

The only time we felt the Chinese were trying to sell us a bill of goods was in the curing of congenital deafness with acupuncture. We visited a school for deaf children and they were adorable. The electrical gadgets and Rube Goldberg paraphernalia, however, were labeled "pure hokum" by our delegation.

Dr. Jay Arena, a world-famous pediatrician from Duke University, said, "There is a possibility that a child whose hearing has been damaged might be helped somewhat by nerve stimulation, but to date, there is no way that a child born deaf can be made to hear with acupuncture treatments or anything else."

Scout council by laws revised

The Cotton Boll Girl Scout Council, with headquarters at 131 E. Malone Ave., comprising an area from Carter County on the west to the banks of the Mississippi on the east and providing assorted activities for 3,000 girls, is moving with the changing times through approved changes in the bylaws of the council.

A highlight of the changing trend is a revision to include at least two Senior Girl Scouts as voting members of the board of directors and secure additional businessmen, professional people and minorities as board members.

Mrs. Thurston Hill of Dexter, president of the board of directors, presided at a meeting of the board on Aug. 29, at the Hickory Log Restaurant in Dexter attended by members of the evaluation team of the council, and Mrs. Taylor Miles of Kennett, the chairman, presented the proposed changes for the approval of the board.

Each Council is evaluated every three years at the time of rechartering, and Mrs. John O'Meara of St. Louis, vice chairman of Region 5 and president of the Girl Scout Council of Greater St. Louis, and Miss Marion G. Burns, a Kansas City staff member and council consultant, were present at the meeting and worked with the task force during the past week.

Other changes were designed to give board members specific responsibilities in regard to communication and council operation, division and formation of communities to give broader efficiency and changes in selection of delegates ot council.

The board rejected a recommendation that the Cotton Boll Council merge with the Otahki Council, based at Cape Girardeau,

In addition to Mrs. Miles, members o the council evaluation committee include Mrs. L. M. Standley, Miss Ilena Aslin and Mrs. Joe Dye of Sikeston; Mrs. Thurston Hill and Mrs. Yewell Camp of Dexter; Mrs. Marvin Barbour of Poplar Bluff; and Mrs. Les Heise of Malden.

Benton couple marries

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Glastetter

BENTON - St. Denis Catholic Church was the setting at 1 p.m. Aug. 17 when the wedding vows of Therese Ziegler and Raymond Glastetter were solemnized. The Rev. Ray Kunkel performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Ziegler of Benton, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Clara L. Glastetter of Benton and the late Leon Glastetter.

Music was provided by Eva Richards of Benton and Karen Brucker of New Hamburg at the organ. Guitarist was David Beardslee of Illmo. Debbie Urhahn and Gregory Scherer of Benton were soloists.

Fresh flowers in rainbow colors decorated the church and white satin bows holding a piece of lilies of the valley, marked the pews.

As guests entered, programs of the wedding ceremony were handed out by Misses Laura and Tina Kenkel of Kelso.

The couples' parents escorted them down the white carpeted aisle through a gold arch filled with greenery.

The bride wore a formal-length gown of white sheer organza and Chantilly lace trimmed with seed pearls and crystals. It featured an empire waistline, high lace-edged neckline and sheer organza Bishop sleeves with cuffs. The shoulder-length veil fell from a florette headpiece. She carried a cascade of red roses, pixie carnations and lilies of the valley with fern greenery and satin ribbons.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister-in- law, Janie Ziegler of Poplar Bluff. Bridesmaids were Lanora Ziegler of Scott City, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mary Hillman of St. Charles, cousin of the bride.

The attendants wore formal-length gowns of flocked organza printed with tiny clusters of roses over a solid-colored underlining. The empire waist was trimmed with a satin ribbon which formed a bow in the back. Ruffles around the neckline and hem accented the short puffy sleeves. Each carried a long- stemmed rose with greenery and a satin ribbon matching the color of their dresses.

Karen Litzler of St. Louis, niece of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a dress styled like those worn by the bridesmaids and carried a white wicker basket of flowers.

Brian Ziegler of Orleans, Ind., god-child and nephew of the bride, was ringbearer. He carried a satin heart-shaped pillow with the wedding rings.

The groom chose his brother, Jim Glastetter of Benton, as best man. Groomsmen were Ralph Ziegler, of Scott City, brother of the bride, and Dennis Glastetter of Benton, brother of the groom.

Ushers were Ronnie Litzler of St. Louis and Gary Ziegler of Orleans, Ind.

Following the exchange of vows, the couple together lit a unity candle, signifying marriage in Christ and that the two now become one.

After the ceremony, the bride placed a flower, as a special memento, in front of the statues of the Blessed Virgin Mary and Ste. Terese the Little Flower, her patron sainte.

Betty Glastetter of Cape Girardeau attended the guest book at the reception.

Kathleen Heisserer, Kathy Gosche, Marilyn Brucker and Margie Gosch of New Hamburg served the three-tiered wedding cake decorated in shades of violet, red, orange and yellow. On either side of the cake were miniature bridesmaids and groomsmen on a stairway of lighted candles. On top of the cake was a miniature bride and groom inside a laced bell.

Following a honeymoon in Florida, the Glastetters are living in Scott City.

They biodegrade so fast at our house, they often disappear right out of your hand.

This is only a conservative figure, mind you, but I spend on the average of five hours a day looking for a comb. Standing in the middle of the bathroom every morning I say to myself, "If you were a shy comb where would you hide?" Then I check the bottom of the clothes hamper, the top of the breadbox, in a trouser pocket under the bed, in the sewing basket, and once I even found one by the bathroom sink.

It wasn't always this way. When the kids were smaller they felt if God had meant for you to comb your hair with a comb He would never have given you five adjustable fingers and nails to make a part. But then they discovered combs and, frankly, I don't like what it has done to our family.

It has turned brother against brother, husband against wife, and mother against the whole crummy bunch. I said tc my husband one morning, "Have you seen the comb?" (Notice, we give it singular distinction like, "Have you seen thequeen?" The Pope? The pyramids?" etc.)

"Not in a week," he said patting his hair down with his hand.

When I returned to the bathroom suddenly, I saw him sneaking a comb out of hiding under the sink that was jammed between a hot water bottle and a shoeshine kit.

I couldn't believe it. This is the man whose children I had borne, who promised to love and cherish me through Spock and Stillman. . .whom I had nursed through 18 income tax returns, who shared my bed. . .my toothpaste. . .my deodorant, but who hid his comb from me.

In his guilt he said, "Would you believe it wasn't here yesterday?"

I called the children together, "Daddy has the comb. He had it all the time."

The last time I saw a look on a child's face like that was when Alan Ladd refused to use his gun in Shane.

"Didn't you know what not having a comb could do to us?" I asked. "Suppose I had to answer the door."

"You could have worn a hat and told them you had brain surgery," he said.

"May the teeth in your comb rot and fall out," I said stiffly. "Come children. I know where there is a hairbrush."

Cards obtain 'Mo-Mentum'

NEW YORK (AP) — So who needs sleep?

Certainly not the St. Louis Cardinals, who ignored some bloodshot eyes and a muffled yawn or two to batter the New York Mets 12-5 and move a game closer to Pittsbufgh and the National League East Division lead Thursday night.

After struggling a record 25 innings and 7 hours, 4 minutes to beat New York Wednesday night and early Thrusday morning, the Cards came back to kayo the Mets again in a more conventional nine innings and 2:57 Thursday night.

"That's a doubleheader sweep today," decided Joe Torre as the Cards packed up for a post-midnight bus ride to Philadelphia. They remembered to take an important rooke named "Mo Mentum" along.

Mo had a big series in New York, In both games, the Cardinals trailed the Mets on the field, and the Pirates on the scoreboard. Both times, the games turned and instead of Pittsburgh winning and St. Louis losing, the roles were reverse. The cards were 3½ games behind when they arrived inNew York and only 1½ back when they left town.

"Sure, you watch the scoreboard," said Torre, "But you don't have any control over it. The game you have to win is the one you're playing. That's the one you can control. It's like going up in an airplane. Your last decision is getting on. After that, it's out of your control."

The Mets almost got out of the Cardinals' control Thursday night, jumping Bob Gibson for a 4-0 lead behind Jon Matlack after five innings. Then they woke up Mo Mentum.

Ted Sizemore opened the sixth with a single and trotted home on Reggie Smith's 22nd home run. Two singles, a couple of walks and a passed ball made it 4-3 and St. Louis had the bases loaded with two out when rookie Keith Hernandez tagged a long fly to center field. Dave Schneck shadow-boxed the ball into a bases-clearing three-run error and the Cards were on top to stay.

St. Louis added three runs in the eighth and three more in the ninth while reliever Al Hrabosky was pitching hitless relief over the last four innings for the Cardinals. Hrabosky, who earned his seventh save, has allowed only on earned run in his last 34-1-3 innings pitched, dating back to July 13.

"We proved somthing big to ourselves here," the lefty reliever said, "You go 25 innings, you're just not supposed to win extra inning games on the road like that. Then tonight, the guys are tired, but still come back and win again. If everybody was dragging, when we were down 4-0 against an excellent pitcher like Matlack, well you almost concede the game in a way. But we came back."

Winning pitcher Bob Gibson thinks the Cardinals can catch Pittsburgh. "We've got to play every game like it was the World Series," he said.

If they do, the Cards are liable to find themselves in the World Series. "I'd like another world series," Gibson continued. "I know I don't have much longer to play. I think if we got into it, we'd win it." "Mo Mentum" had to agree.

Missouri Football Facts

Compliments Of

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Following last year's 34-17 Sun Bowl rout of Auburn, Missouri's Tigers took dead aim on the Big Eight crown. Coach Al Onofrio has 38 lettermen returning from last season's squad that finished 8-4, and the Tigers could be ready to roar through the conference.

The Missouri offense will be led by senior fullback, Ray Bybee, who gained 690 yards last year to lead all Tiger running backs. Bybee was named the game's most valuable back in the Sun Bowl.

For many year's the Tigers have depended on a tremendous defense; this year will be no exception. Missouri has nine starters returning, and they should make life rough for opposing offenses. The Bengal line is intact and will be anchored by Senior Mark Johnson who made 85 tackles last season; the linebackers will be led by Scott Pickens who led the Tiger defense in tackles last year with 89. The secondary will be manned by Tony Gillick and Kenny Downing.

Rams solid favorite

Southeast Missouri's high school football season goes into full swing Friday night and prognostication panel is ready to take a go at it for the following nine weeks of the season.

Returning to the panel this season will be Bobby Gentry, Eddie Smart, Danny Summerfield and John Greer. Stuart McGhee may offer his professional opinion on occasion and of course the 'old' sport's editor, Ron Jaynes will be here and newcomer Earl Henderson, who just recently joined the Daily Standard sports staff to give Bill Harrison and Jaynes a hand this season, will give their opinions. The pro missed the Mules game last week.

CHARLESTON vs PORTAGEVILLE — The Bluejays are fast and tough. They have a new coach in Sam Gill, who has a winning tradition from Arkansas. One guesser went against the Jays and six for. Charleston should take the game by a lopsided score. 35-6. Mr. Smart has the Bulldogs picked to win.

DEXTER vs JACKSON — Coach Paul Webber always has a tough team but so does coach Clyde Vaughn. The Indians always manage to best the Bearcats in the opening game and this should be no different. Five picked the Bearcats and two went for Jackson. Jackson 14, Dexter 7. Greer & Gentry went with the Tribe.

MALDEN vs KENNETT — Kennett is a 7-0 favorite and Bill Arment will agree whole heartedly. Kennett 35, Madden 7. But not really this bad!

PERRYVILLE vs STE. GENEVIEVE — The Pirates are a 6-1 favorite by the panel and should best their leadbelt rival but in a close game. Pirates 21, Ste. Gen. 14. Gentry is the lone dissenter.

POPLAR BLUFF vs SPRINGFIELD Glendale -- The Mules are a 6-2 favorite but after a loss to Fox last week may not be good enough to take on the western power. Glendale 21, Poplar Bluff 7. Summerfield & wild Bill favored the host.

ST. VINCENT'S of PERRYVILLE vs CHAFFEE -- The Red Devils have Charles Vickery for their coach this year and has the boys working hard to rebuild the football prowess that Chaffee had in the past. Three picked the Red Devils and three picked St. Vincent's with the old pro breaking the tie and going with ... CHS, Chaffee 14, St. Vincent's 6.

ILLMO-SCOTT CITY vs EAST PRAIRIE -- Coach Bill Wilthong's Rams are solid 7-0 favorites to keep their unbeaten string intact after last year. The Eagles will play their hearts out but will lose --- 21-12. It will be a good test for both clubs.

THAYER vs DONIPHAN -- The Dons took a beating in Caruthersville last week but will probably handle Theyer. Six to one in favor of the Dons. 21-0. Gentry again bucks the odds.

SIKESTON vs KANSAS CITY LILLIS-- The Bulldogs have a good defense but their offense needs a little polish. Maybe they will have enough offense to take care of Bishop Lillis. The Bulldogs will be facing the biggest team that they will meet in the season. But, the bigger they aare the harder they fall. Kansas City is the favorite by the panel 4-3 but SIKESTON will WIN -- 14-7.

PARKWAY WEST vs CAPE CENTRAL -- The Tigers lost Bill Seabaugh and Steve C Taylor and that means trouble for the Tigers. The panel makes Parkway West 6-1 favorites and that's the way it should be. Parkway Weest 21. Cape Central 7. Smart is the only non- believer.

Squirrels costly at Mingo

Two Fredricktown hunters recently learned about the high price of meat - squirrel meat that is. The two hunters were hunting on Mingo last week and had managed to bag six squirrels when refuge officials met up with them. According to refuge manager Jerry Clawson, a portion of Mingo Refuge is open to hunting, "but these fellows elected to hunt along the boardwalk and up near the new visitor center - over a mile from the public hunting area". The mistake cost them $50.00 each.

In commenting on the fines, Clawson cautioned, hunters planning to hunt on Mingo this fall that only a 6,500 acre portion on the refuge is open to hunting. The area is posted and maps are available at refuge headquarters. If in doubt, about where to hunt, call or write the refuge manager, Mingo National Wildlife Refuge, Puxico, Missouri for additional information.

Mingo National Wildlife Refuge is administered by the Fish and Wildlife Service, U. S. Department of the Interior.

Scripture: Exodus 3;14;19

LIBERATING THE OPPRESSED

The Exodus has become a symbol of liberation for all oppressed people since the days of Moses. God knows and feels the crying voices of oppressed man.

Here is another study of God's call to one man to help Him guide His people to a more peaceful and religious environment.

Although some researchers conclude that the story of Moses contains a few historical errors, it nevertheless is a significant account for us to review.

Israel's birth as a people follows the exodus from Egypt. This history evolves around Moses, whose birth is related in folklore style. Born a Hebrew, Moses was adopted by the daughter of Pharaoh.

The Bible provides the only information about Moses, telling of his early education and association with the Egyptian leaders. He may have been educated in the court circles.

After he killed an Egyptian taskmaster, Moses fled to Midian, where he married the daughter of a priest.

Even the youngest readers of the Bible are acquainted with Moses' call to help God lead His people to freedom.

Moses was minding the flock when he was called to his most challenging assignment. Using a burning bush as a medium of communication, God identified Himself to Moses.

Moses, like many persons called to serve God today, was skeptical of his ability to lead his people from Egypt to a world of freedom. He could not visualize himself appearing before the Pharaoh and demanding freedom for the slaves.

Faith in God makes the oppressed sensitive and responsive to measures of relief. Possibly Moses' faith was overtested when He asked God how he could impress the rulers. God provided the answer with the staff-to-snake miracle.

And like so many today, Moses expressed more doubts. He wasn't a public speaker; he feared presenting himself before the Pharaoh.

"Who is it that gives man speech?" God asked. God did not expect Moses to start his lifelong campaign without His help. "I will tell you what to say," God answered.

The rest of this incident is well known to readers of the Bible, expecially the dividing of the Red Sea to permit the Israelites to flee from the charging Egyptians.

When Moses and his people were safe, God told Moses to close the sea, trapping all the Egyptians.

A great fear came among the Israelites, as they suddenly realized what had happened. Here they were safe on one side of the Red Sea while the Egyptians were lying dead on the other seashore.

After three struggling months, the Israelites reached the wilderness of Sinai. Following careful preparations, Moses went up the mountain to confer with God.

The Ten Commandments were then delivered to the world through Moses. The people were so afraid that they again promised to do everything God asked of them.

Today there is still oppression around the world. Such affairs are not kept secret from God. He is aware of this and from time to time He sends His leaders to help these persons in trouble.

Slavery, or bondage, takes on many forms in today's society. Some young persons become slaves to their families and are not permitted to go out on their own. Others become slaves to their jobs and are afraid to leave the security of one position to tackle a newer, more challenging one.

And others, like Moses, fear their own inadequate backgrounds. Yet to all persons oppressed by any means there is God, always willing to provide the needs for anyone with the faith to follow Him.

Burning bushes are not common today. Yet the oppressed people still call for help.

Historic church plans vesper service Sept. 22

POCAHONTAS - On Sept. 22 at 3 p.m., friends of Old Apple Creek Presbyterian Church near Pocahontas will gather for a vesper service and a basket supper on the grounds. The Rev. Richard C. Lamb, minister of the First Presbyterian Church in Jackson will conduct the service.

The historic old church was founded in 1820 and is the second oldest Presbyterian church west of the Mississippi River. The adjoining well maintained cemetery is the final resting place of numerous members of many prominent families throughout Missouri and the Midwest.

The membership rolls and other historicl information pertaining to the first 119 years of the church's existence are carefully preserved by officials of the association and are used frequently in assisting people who are interested in obtaining information about ancestors who were members of the church and who are buried in the cemetery.

The Apple Creek Memorial Association was formed to perpetuate the memory of Apple Creek Presbysterian Church, its members of years ago, the church buildings and the Apple Creek Cemetery. There has not been a full-time minister or regular church services at Apple Creek since 1939.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

THE BIBLE

152. David And Bathsheba

In the spring, David sent his troops to do battle with the Ammonites, but he remained in Jerusalem. One evening, as he walked along the roof of the palace, he saw the beautiful Bathsheba and sent for her. Afterwards, she sent word to King David that she was with child.

Now her husband, Uriah the Hittite, refused to go home while the forces of Israel were at war; instead he kept vigil at the palace gate, though David attempted to lure him home to his wife. Finally, David had Joab place Uriah in the thick of battle, where he would probably be killed. Along with several other soldiers, Uriah was slain as they attacked a walled city.

When Bathsheba learned of her husband's death, she mourned. "And when the mourning was past, David sent and fetched her to his house, and she became his wife, and bare him a son. But the thing that David had done displeased the Lord." (II Samuel 11:27)

Hearing set for man on charges of incest, molesting and sodomy

BLOOMFIELD - Preliminary hearing for John Brazarian, formerly of Dexter, was set for Sept. 24 after he appeared in Magistrate Court Thursday on charges of incest, molesting a minor and sodomy.

Brazarian became loud and unruly when the charges were read to the court by Stoddard County Prosecuting Attorney Tom Baker. Sheriff Ralph Mouser had to issue several warnings before Brazarian was finally subdued.

Brazarian also was bound over to Circuit Court for trial on two counts of writing insufficient funds checks in the amount of $150 and $125 to the Dexter IGA Foodliner.

David Roosevelt Jackson Jr. was bound over to Circuit Court for trial following a preliminary hearing on charges of displaying a deadly weapon against his estranged wife, Barbara Ann Jackson.

Mrs. Jackson testified that Jackson threatened her and her seven children with a loaded gun following an argument over money.

Jackson testified that he loaded the gun only after he had discovered Mrs. Jackson was carrying a loaded gun in her purse.

Virgil Leo Mace of Dexter was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail after he pleaded guilty to driving while his license was revoked, his second such conviction in two weeks. Mace will serve his jail time on weekends, beginning at 9 a.m. on Saturday and ending at 9 p.m. Sunday until the 30 days are served. He was also fined $15.

Preliminary hearing for G. J. Jackson, charged with felonious assault against Ida Lee Jones with a pistol, was set for Sept. 24.

Roger McCullum was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail for stealing less than $50. He will serve one day of jail time, then be paroled under supervision for six months. Another charge of resisting a police officer was dismissed against McCullum.

Elmer Eugene Green waived a preliminary hearing and was bound over to Circuit Court for trial on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Robert Earl Cox of Essex and Roger Kieth Turman of Bernie paid fines of $15 each for careless and imprudent driving.

Kay Weathers of Bernie and Edwin Larry Beal of Painton were fined $15 each for driving without a license. Beal also paid a $100 fine for driving while intoxicated.

Hershel Steven Babb of Ft. Leonard Wood was fined $10 for operating a motorcycle without a helmet.

State Democrats have $3,923; owe $29,500

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Democratic Party has $3,923 in the bank and owes $29,500, says a report of the Democratic State Committee's audit committee.

From July 1, 1973, to Sept. 10, 1974, the state committee received $128,093 and spent $125,510.

The committee started the fiscal year with $1,340 in the bank.

The birthday dinner for former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes in 1973 brought in $25,884, said state treasurer James I. Spainhower. He predicted a similar profit for a victory dinner this November.

Hearnes held his birthday dinner this year in Sikeston and the state committee's balance sheet showed no income from that dinner.

The 1973 Democratic national telethon produced $23,736 for the state committee and this year's telethon will bring in about $12,000 after disbursements are made to the local Democratic committees round the state.

The state committee was able to pay $20,543 toward its 1972 campaign debt.

The biggest cost was $50,150 for wages to committee employes. The biggest income producer was $55,054 from Spainhower's "committee of 10,000" fund-raising program which solicits donations ranging from $5 a month to $1,000 a year.

Luxury liner burns

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The $27 million luxury liner Cunard Ambassador, a fire raging in its interior, wallowed abandoned in the Gulf of Mexico today. Officials feared it might capsize before the fire could be put out.

The blaze, spreading amidships, forced 53 Ambassador crewmen and 40 Coast Guardmen who fought the fire to abandon ship late Thursday as it lay dead in the water 35 miles off Key West. There were no reports of injuries.

The Ambassador, portions of its gleaming white exterior scorched by intense heat, was listing from water pumped aboard as Coast Guard ships stood by through the night.

"The risk of capsizing is a definite one now and it doesn't look good," a Coast Guard spokesman said.

The 480-foot liner was carrying 309 crewmen but no passengers when the fire erupted shortly after dawn on Thursday. Most of the crew were transferred to a passing naval tanker within hours.

The Coast Guard spokesman said the blaze started as the liner rounded the tip of Florida en route from Miami to New Orleans, where it was to pick up passengers for a cruise to Vera Cruz, Mexico. The fire apparently was caused when fuel spewed from a ruptured line and ignited when it hit the hot diesel engine, the spokesman said.

Capt. Robert Howard ordered most of the crew to abandon ship soon afterward. Two hours later they were aboard the naval vessel Tallulah, which then continued on course to Fort Lauderdale.

Teens need work law information

KANSAS CITY — With school starting again, teenagers seeking part- time jobs need to know about state and federal laws regulating youth employment, says Doyle I. Loveridge, head of the Department of Labor's Employment Standards Administration regional office in Kansas City.

Laws most directly affecting young employees are state work permit requirements and the Child Labor and Minimum Wage sections of the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act.

"Most states require working youth under age 18 to have a work permit or certificate that lists their age," Loveridge says. "These permits are usually available at local school boards."

In summarizing the Child Labor laws, Loveridge notes that while restrictions would appear to cut a teenager's employment opportunities, "the fact is, 95 per cent of all jobs are open to teenagers."

Child Labor laws specify that:

- 14- and 15- year- olds may work only outside school hours and between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. They may work up to three hours per day during the school week and up to eight hours daily during vacations. Work time should total no more than 18 hours during school weeks and no more than 40 hours during vacation weeks. (Newspaper carriers, golf caddies and performers are exempt from these restrictions.)

- 16- year- olds may work during school hours.

-- No workers under age 18 may participate in the 17 occupations designated as "hazardous" -- such as mining, construction, transportation, processing, work on power-driven machinery or vehicles, etc.

The minimum wage law specifies payment of $2 per hour to workers in occupations covered by the Act before 1966, $1.90 for those added since 1966, and $1.60 per hour for certain farm workers.

"Full- time students, however, may legally be paid less than those rates if the employer holds a certificate allowing payment of a 'student minimum' of 85 per cent of the minimum wage," Loveridge points out. "This may seem unfair, at first," he admits, "but it actually gives student workers a competitive edge."

Loveridge also notes that the minimum wage law requires in most cases overtime payments of one and one- half times the regular rate for any hours worked above 40 in the work week.

Persons who have questions about Child Labor or Minimum Wage provisions are invited to call the nearest Wage- Hour Division office of the U.S. Department of Labor for answers to specific problems.

Sudden infant death explored

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — May I call your attention to your article in the newspaper — "The Sudden Unexplained Crib Death."

I am an R.N., and have been night supervisor in a small general hospital with very limited help, no interns. I was chief of all trades, in a rural area. I had everything imaginable. However, we had a small nursery and I tried to keep close contact as much as possible. On occasion I would find a baby in the crib wedged against the side corner of the crib almost asphyxiated, cyanosed, muscus rolling from its mouth and nose due to the incarceration of same. I was always lucky enough to resuscitate the child.

According to my observation, due to lack of oxygen, as a result of labored respiration, the lungs fill with mucus and when the doctor does a post mortem examination he frequently states the baby died of pneumonia.

This has occurred in older babies, due also to inadequate feeding. They go feeling with their mouths for their bottle until they feel something and progressively work against it until they get wedged up and choke.

Doctors don't think nurses know anything even though we witness the act. We are in close contact with the patient, and we should know some of the symptoms — of course, we are not allowed to judge theoretically, but practically we should judge and give our opinion — A nurse's opinion is never asked.

Please accept my apology if I have overstepped my quotation.

Dear Reader — There are a number of ways in which infants can be asphyxiated and you have described one possible way. However, asphyxiation is not what most people are talking about in terms of sudden infant death. The sudden unexplained problems occur with the baby lying normally in the crib with no indication that there was any other complicating factor, or the baby may die suddenly even, on rare occasions, in the mother's arm.

I would like to emphasize again that in the real sudden unexplained deaths there isn't anything the parents could have done about it, or any other person who is supervising the infant, and there is no reason for them to have guilt feelings about what they could have done, or should have done, or shouldn't have done.

Having said that, I'd like to say that your point is of interest and it's very important for people to appreciate that young infants can get asphyxiated in a number of different ways. Constant vigilence is necessary to protect babies from such problems. You've emphasized a good point about problems of asphyxiation and it certainly is difficult sometimes to tell with ordinary examinations afterwards if that was the real problem.

I don't agree with you that most doctors don't value the nurse's opinion. We depend on their notes, observations, and recognize their invaluable help even in the most critically ill patients, such as their vital role in our coronary care units and intensive care units. Good doctors appreciate a good nurse and that's why so many nurses have been given increased responsibilities, particularly in recent years.

Minnelli autobiography, 'I Remember It Well'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I Remember It Well" is the title of the new autobiography of Vincente Minnelli, who has sometimes been remembered less for his superbly styled movies than for being husband and father of two superstars.

Minnelli was married to Judy Garland from 1945 to 1951. They collaborated on four films and one daughter, Liza, born by Caesarian section on March 12, 1946.

He has also directed such films as "Meet Me in St. Louis," "Madame Bovary," "An American in Paris" (Oscar for best picture, 1951), "Father of the Bride," "The Bad and the Beautiful," "Lust for Life," "Gigi" (best picture, best direction, 1957), "Some Came Running," etc.

With collaborator Hector Arce, Minnelli deals in frank and instructive detail with the hazards of directing for a major studio — he made all but two of his 35 films for MGM. Also the problems of dealing with the industry's censors.

The Production Code Administrator objected to the making of "Gigi" because "all of the characters were unmarried and opposed marriage as an institution," and "the boy had immoral relations with many women and the girl was being trained for life as a mistress."

The administrator finally relented, and Minnelli filmed "Gigi" in his usual good taste.

Minnelli's pride in Liza shines through in his autobiography.

"I've always been more a part of the audience than her father, a super fan who happens to love her very much," he remarks.

Father and daughter had hoped to make a film together, but so far it hasn't materialized. Minnelli is considering other projects, admitting that he works to please himself — "but I'm the hardest person to please that I know."

"I was attracted to her open manner, as only a man who has been reserved all his life can be," says Minnelli.

Calley is movie subject

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "This isn't some animal or monster. This is a human being who committed a monstrous act."

Producer-director Stanley Kramer was giving his interpretation of the misdeeds of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., convicted in the deaths of at least 22 civilians in the My Lai massacre in Vietnam.

The Kramer version will be seen on ABC Television this fall as the third in his series of notable trials.

"What happened?" Kramer mused on the day before starting the taping of the show. "How did William Calley go from Miami, Fla., to My Lai?

"I'm not going to supply any panacea, not even a middle-of-the-road panacea. But I will suggest his basic orientation, which was that the Red Chinese would be occupying San Francisco within two weeks.

"Those soldiers were indoctrinated. Anyone in a village could be the enemy — children, women, old people. The only answer was to 'waste' — kill everything that moved."

Kramer said he is no apologist for Calley, although the two men have become acquainted since the trial. The director has long been fascinated with trials, and he went to Calley's with the intention of staying one day. He remained for five weeks.

"I just saw Calley again two weeks ago at Leavenworth Prison," Kramer remarked. "He said he'll be up for parole in January. Is he bitter? I don't think so. He has matured a lot through the whole experience."

Kramer has a history of dealing with seemingly unpopular issues. He treated bigotry in "Home of the Brave" and "The Defiant Ones," war crimes in "Judgment at Nuremburg," nuclear disaster in "On the Beach," thought control in "Inherit the Wind."

"I lost with 'Nuremburg,' 'On the Beach,' 'Inherit the Wind' and 'Ship of Fools,'" he remarked. "'The Defiant Ones' (Sidney Poitier, Tony Curtis) made money and so did 'Home of the Brave,' but that was because it only cost $350,000.

"I've not won any popularity contests, and I don't expect to win with this particular scene."

After watching the trial, Kramer made a financial arrangement with Calley for the rights to dramatize the story. Originally, a film was planned,

"I felt the subject was more suitable for the 'nowness' of television, and it fit neatly into this series I was doing for ABC," Kramer said.

The series started in January with "The Trial of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg." In June came "The Court Martial of the Tiger of Malaya — Gen. Yamashita."

Tony Musante, late of the "Toma" television series, plays the leading role in "The Court Martial of Lt. William Calley." Richard Basehart is the defense attorney and Bo Hopkins the prosecutor.

Anyone interested may enroll anytime during the day from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Bell City DAEOC Center or by contacting the center by telephone at 733-4565. Classeswill begin as soon as enough enroll.

Lawyers named to committee

Seven area lawyers have been named to the Missouri Bar Judicial Poll Committee, according to Edward Jayne of Kirksville, general chairman of the committee.

The committee will conduct a poll on the performance of judges serving under the non- partisan court plan who will be running for retention in the November general election.

Named to the committee are Tom Gilmore of 205 Salcedo Road, Sikeston; W. Clifton Banta, of Charleston; James A. Vickery of Caruthersville; Harry Bock of New Madrid; Joe C. Welborn of Bloomfield, Wendell Crow of Kennett; and Stephen N. Limbaugh of Cape Girardeau.

Secret ballots will be mailed Monday to all Missouri lawyers and will be counted Oct. 1. The results will be made public.

What's the law?

The case of the gay drinkers

By JACK STRAUSS, LL. B.

Brian operated a tavern where most of his customers had the gender but not the sex. In fact, a low voice in the crowd usually caused eyebrows to raise. But, none of this particularly bothered convivial Brian.

What did bother him, however, was when the liquor authority tried to close down his operation under a regulation that prohibited homosexuals from congregating in taverns.

"You can't put me out of business," he protested. "I run a tight little bar with perfect decorum. And so long as a person behaves himself, he's got a right to be served and I've got a right to serve him."

"You gotta' be kidding," responded a member of the liquor authority. "When homosexuals get together their mere presence is likely to lead to misconduct. Consequently, the regulation is absolutely proper ... Which is more than can be said for the customers that gather in your tavern."

Confronted by a padlock, Brian attacked the validity of the regulation in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Brian's tavern to be closed down for being in violation of the gay regulation?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a tavern owner is obliged to make sure that his establishment is operated in a lawful and orderly fashion at the peril of losing his license. Any offensive conduct or improprieties on his premises will produce that result.

Consequently, concluded the judge, the regulation is unnecessary and beyond the public need. It's the conduct of the customer that counts and not who the customer is.

Today in U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Sept. 13, the 256th day of 1974. There are 109 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1788, the U.S. Consitutional Convention authorized the first national election in the United States.

On this date —

In 1759, during the French and Indian war, the British defeated the French on the Plains of Abraham overloooking Quebec.

In 1814, Francis Scott Key was detained aboard a British warship bombarding Fort McHenry, near Baltimore. The next morning he wrote "The Star Spangled Banner."

In 1943, Chiang Kai-shek became President of China.

In 1954, Maine elected its first Democratic governor in 20 years — Edmund Muskie.

In 1955, West Germany and the Soviet Union established diplomatic relations.

In 1960, Republican Presidential nominee Richard Nixon said the American people should accept Democratic nominee John Kennedy's Roman Catholic faith without any further questioning.

Ten years ago: Egypt and Saudi Arabia announced agreement for a peaceful settlement of the two-year-old Yemeni civil war.

One year ago: Israeli and Syrian jets clashed over the Mediterranean in their biggest air battle since the 1967 war.

Today's birthday: Actress Claudette Colbert is 69 years old.

Thought for today: Life is like an onion. You peel it off one layer at a time and sometimes you weep — poet Carl Sandburg.

SUMMER OR WINTER . . . HOMES ARE BEING SOLD. DON'T LET THE TIME OF YEAR BOTHER YOUR PLANS. WE NEED HOMES TO SELL RIGHT NOW MORE THAN ANY OTHER TIME. SALES ARE GOOD – SO GOOD THAT WE HAVE ALMOST SOLD OURSELVES OUT OF BUSINESS. REMEMBER . . . THERE ARE FEWER HOMES ON THE MARKET THIS TIME OF YEAR SO THERE IS LESS COMPETITION AND MORE CUSTOMERS FOR YOUR HOME.

WE INVITE you to check our qualifications to handle the sale of your home. After 10 years we think we have established a reputation for honesty, for getting the job done & for closing the transaction to everyone's satisfaction. Check with your banker, with your attorney or ask your friends and neighbors. THEN give us a call . . . we need homes to sell right now.

Fund-raising campaign set

The Tri-County Mental Health Association of Scott, Stoddard and Mississippi counties will hold its fund-raising "Bellringer Campaign" in Scott County from Sept. 21 - 28.

This will be accomplished through door- to- door solicitation and roadblocks in some areas. The 4—H Club will also collect at their Cotton Carnival stand on Sept. 28. The announcement was made by Mrs. Margaret Rowe of Charleston, president.

One in 10 people in the United States have some form of mental illness, ranging from mild to severe, that would benefit from professional help. Twenty-one million families are affected by mental illness from someone in their immediate family - more than one in four. Children also suffer from mental illness in the same proportion as adults; three per cent have severe emotional problems; another eight per cent have less severe problems, but are still unable to function normally.

In cooperation with the State and National Associations for the mental health, the Tri-County Association is developing a coordinated citizens' movement to work toward the improved care and treatment of the mentally ill and handicapped; for improved methods in research prevention, diagnosis and treatment of the mental illness or handicap and for the promotion of mental health.

When you are baking a fruit-and-nut quick bread (good to take on picnics) line the bottom of the loaf pan with wax paper because these breads have a tendency to stick. Some cooks like to grease the wax paper but this is not strictly necessary.

Hearing for robbery suspects set today

KENNETT -- A preliminary hearing for three Clarkton men, charged with first degree robbery, was scheduled to be held today in Dunklin County Magistrate Court.

Larry Ray Bolin, Wilford Lee Norton, and Frederick Porter Huckleberry have been charged with first degree robbery stemming from an alleged assault on a Malden youth on Aug. 24, who was robbed of about $10.

Terry Minderman, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Bullard of 311 North Kimball, and William Paul Pope, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Uthoff of 406 East Howard, were reportedly near McGuire on the night of Aug. 24, when their car stalled. The three Clarkton men reportedly stopped and offered assistance. When attempts to start the youth's car failed, the three men suggest the five of them return to Clarkton. Minderman and Pope got into the car with the men and instead of returning to Clarkton, the men turned off onto a gravel road.

Minderman was robbed of about $9 and allegedly was beaten because he did not have more money. The group then drove to Minderman's home and he was allegedly instructed to go inside and take the tape player, rifle, his father's money.

Minderman went inside the house where his father saw his condition and called the police. Bullard told the police that the men were parked in an alley behind his home. The police apparently missed the alley and the men drove off.

After the police left, the men reportedly circled the house several times. They then allegedly took Pope out east on Highway 62 and beat him. Later, when they returned to Malden, they were spotted by the police, Minderman and his father. The arrests followed.

Property to be deeded to highway department

BLOOMFIELD -- The City Council Thursday night passed an ordinance authorizing Mayor J. C. Newcomer to deed to the Missouri Highway Department a small piece of acreage on North Prairie Street.

The deed to the property will enable the highway department to prodeed with plans to build a wider bridge to replace the narrow bridge at the site of the property.

Newcomer said the project has been included in the highway department's improvement plans but that no date has been set for the start of construction.

Green beans recalled

Certain cans of Fresh-Like and IGA french style green beans have been recalled from IGA stores in Missouri and Illinois because of under-processing, according to the Food and Drug Administration.

There is a strong possibility that the cans may have been sold in the St. Louis area, a spokesman said Thursday. Fresh-Like cans may also have been distributed to other stores in the area, the spokesman added.

The cans involved in the recall are coded GBM 48 and GBM 49, the spokesman said. The green beans are canned by the Larson Co. of Green Bay, Wis., and come in 12- and 16-ounce cans.

Although a limited number of cans is involved, the spokesman said, consumption of the beans could create a health hazard.

A routine inspection of cans packed at Larson's Cambria, Wis., plant showed that some of the cans of beans were underprocessed, which could allow the growth of micro-organisms.

The FDA said persons who have purchased cans of green beans should not eat them and should return the cans to the stores where they were purchased.

BORN FREE

Mondays, NBC
Television Network
(In Color, 7-8 p.m. CDT

The "Born Free" series is filmed entirely on location in East Africa, a last frontier where adventures and tourists, spies and smugglers, poachers and missionaries, guerilla fighters and savage beasts, the old and the new, the peaceful and violent, co-exist and provide a wealth of story material.

The show is a dramatic adventure series for the entire family and its stories will be filled with humor and sentiment, warmth and love, and, above all, drama.

The hour- long series is based on the romantic and thrilling adventures of George and Joy Adamson, with the lioness Elsa, and other creatures of the African landscape. The Adamson books, "Born Free," "Living Free" and "Forever Free," have sold over 20 million copies in 15 years.

Gary Collins and Diana Muldaur star as the Adamsons. The dramatic stakes of each show will be the life or death of some person or animal the audience cares about. Elsa's violent struggles with a rival lioness; a love story about Masai tribesmen challenging ancient taboos; and a dramatic confrontation between Adamson and a white hunter whose life style is in opposition to the emerging needs of modern Africa provide material for some of the episodes.

BOB HOPE SPECIALS

(In Color, on the NBC Television Network)

The fall of 1974 will mark Bob Hope's 25th year on the NBC Television Network, his 36th year as an NBC star, and another year added to his record of being the all-time long-run champion on the network.

In the 1973-74 season Hope's specials once more chalked up enviable ratings, an achievement which has been a hallmark of the specials since their inception.

Although the Hope Christmas Show for American troops serving overseas, which was a tradition for many years, is no longer part of the over-all plan for Hope specials, he will continue to do an annual vaudeville show, the Bob Hope Desert Classic and several shows direct from the campuses of major colleges and universities. The Bob Hope Desert Classic, which Hope sponsors each year for the benefit of the Eisenhower Medical Center in Palm Springs, as well as other Desert charities, again will be a highlight of the season.

The Bob Hope Specials are produced by Mort Lachman and directed by Dick McDonough. Bob Hope is executive producer.

10:00 WSIU— MOVIE— "The Virgin Spring" Drama. Directed by Ingmar Bergman, based on a medieval ballad. A young woman, on her way to make a religious offering, is raped and murdered. The killers unknowingly ask to spend the night in her parent's house. The father takes his revenge, then asks God for forgiveness. Tense drama. The young girl is played by Brigitta Petterson, her pagan half- sister by Gunnel Lindblom, the avenging father by Max von Sydow.

10:30 CBS— LATE MOVIE— "Tick Tick Tick" Starring Jim Brown and George Kennedy. Powerful drama concerning the explosive results of a political change in a Southern community.

10:30 ABC— SPECIAL— "O. J. Simpson is Alive and Well and Getting Roasted Tonight"— Howard Cosell is the host for this show

A NEW TV AWARD

AWARD FOCUSES ON WRITERS

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — A new TV award has been announced. Ordinarily I would greet that news with a protracted period of thumb-twiddling. We need more TV awards like we need a rise in prices. As it is, the Emmy currently has about as much prestige as a can of leftover cat food.

But this new award, the Humanitas Prize, seems to be a cut above the others, because of its aims and the men behind it.

Three awards will be given annually, beginning next year. They will go to the writers of the best 90-minute or more, 60-minute and 30- minute commercial TV programs which best communicate "those values which most fully enrich the human person."

Since we could stand some human- person enrichment, this is a brave stand. And it's high time the writer was singled out, because the written word must come first in any show.

Father Ellwood (Bud) Kieser, the Paulist priest who runs the Insight show, is the guiding force behind the new Humanitas Prize. And he has surrounded himself with an executive committee and board of trustees of outstanding men so it should become one of TV's most prestigious awards.

It will be worthwhile to the writer, too — the prizes will be $25,000, $15,000 and $10,000, depending on the length of the script.

Advance word from those who have seen it (and that includes me) is that NBC's Chico and the Man is a sure thing for success this coming TV season. It's witty and warm and wise.

But it may have some problems. It concerns Chicanos. Like all minorities these days they are pretty touchy about how much and what kind of fun can be poked at them.

Jimmy Komack, who created, wrote and produces the show, was worried, too.

So he screened it for a lot of Los Angeles' Chicanos. He says that kids from a tough Chicano high school loved it. But some leaders of the Chicano community were not too happy because they felt some of the jokes (such as a continual kidding reference to flies swarming around the Chicano boy in the show) were in poor taste.

"But I pointed out the speeches that were pro-Chicano," Komack says, "and they went away happy."

George C. Scott and his wife, Trish Van Devere, wrapped up their arduous location shooting in the Mexican jungle for their film, "The Savage Is Loose."Then they promptly went home to Connecticut where, Scott says, "we plan to collapse."

"The Sting" is long since an established hit. Yet director George Roy Hill is still working on it. Just a few days ago somebody called his attention to an error — in the race- calling sequences, once the caller referred to the second race, once to the third. So Hill had the scene redubbed — long after the movie won its seven Oscars.

Economists say no price relief in sight

WASHINGTON AP — Two of President Ford's top economic advisers say consumers won't get any significant relief from the nation's soaring inflation rate this year.

The gloomy predictions came from departing presidential economic counselor Kenneth Rush and Chairman Alan Greenspan of the Council of Economics Advisers.

Despite months of anti-in-flation effort, including record high interest rates most of this year, these advisers say the earliest any real progress can be made is next year.

These views mark a major retreat from Nixon administration predictions that the rate of inflation, now about 11 per cent, would decline to 7 per cent by the end of this year. This target was revised upward a month ago to 8 per cent.

Rush, who was confirmed by the Senate on Thursday as ambassador to France, indicated in an interview that the inflation rate may still be above 10 per cent when 1974 draws to a close.

In other economic developments on Thursday:

—Senate Democrats voted to send President Ford several economic policy proposals for consideration at the upcoming economic summit meeting.

—Leaders of the nation's housing industry attending an economic minisummit in Atlanta made a bid to exempt their industry from anti-inflationary tight money policies.

—The Federal Power Commission staff recommended a single nationwide price on certain natural gas, a move virtually certain to increase gas prices.

—The wholesale price index for August was released showing a 3.9 per cent leap, an indication that inflation may be getting worse.

—Ford Motor Co., anounced a 7.4 per cent price hike on its 1975 model cars.

Greenspan told labor leaders meeting at the White House on Wednesday that "in the immediate period ahead it does not appear as though the inflation rate is turning down. . . ."

Greenspan said "we hope' it will decline in 1975.

Both Rush and Greenspan cited the prospect of higher food costs, resulting in part from a Midwest drought, as being largely responsible for the worsening inflation outlook.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon was not quite so pessimistic as they were, but he indicated to a newsman that it was unlikely the inflation rate would be below 8.5 per cent this year, and could be higher.

The report that wholesale prices increased 3.9 per cent in August alone was an indication that inflation may be getting worse instead of better.

The August increase was the second highest monthly increase in 28 years, exceeded only by a 6.2 per cent increase in August of last year after price controls were removed.

The increase occurred throughout the economy. But agricultural products led the way with a 7.6 per cent increase, followed by industrial commodities, which were up 2.5 per cent.

The increase in wholesale prices for three months ending in August was at an annual rate of 37.3 per cent. The increase from a year earlier was 17.8 per cent.

Prairie considers city sales tax

EAST PRAIRIE - A one-cent sales tax was discussed Thursday night by the City Council as a possible solution to the city's financial problems.

Councilman Jones Hedge said over 100 cities in Missouri have adopted the one-cent tax. He noted that surveys have shown that not one business has lost money or that customers have been driven out of town by the tax.

Hedge also said he believed the tax was more fair to all citizens than an increase in property taxes would be and added that surrounding towns are also considering the sales tax proposal.

The Chamber of Commerce, in a letter to the council, has requested a statement on what money raised by the tax would be used for. A meeting between the chamber and council will be held at the earliest opportunity, according to Mayor Lawand A. Douglas. She said if the decision is made to present the tax proposal to the citizens, it could hopefully be placed on the November general election ballot in order to save the expense of a special election.

Most of the council members appeared in favor of the tax increase, but it was noted by Councilman Marion "Bud" Morgan that he would not be in favor of the tax if it placed a hardship on elderly citizens.

Mrs. Sarah Sanders, Miss Mary Moore, Mrs. Robbie Helen Gregory and Mrs. Halline Cole were present at the meeting. Mrs. Sanders expressed concern and disappointment over losing City Manager Bob Kakac and asked what the council's plans were for replacing the city manager. She and the others were told that some applications for the position have been received, but this would be discussed at a later date.

City Attorney Fielding Potasknick said a city manager must be hired or an interim manager from the city will have to be appointed to conduct city business, as long as a city management form of government is still in effect. This issue could be voted on again in July, 1975.

Potashnick said the city would revert back to its fourth class city status if city management is voted out. He also said it would place restrictions in bonding, taxing and other governmental powers and would also have some effect on any federal assistance the city would be qualified to receive.

An interim manager must be a resident of East Prairie and cannot be a member of the council, nor can the mayor be in charge of the city. While there can be a period of time that the city can be without a manager, Potashnick said it would not be a practical measure, since no hiring or firing of any party could be done during this period.

Mrs. Halline Cole asked why the council accepted Kakac's resignation so quickly without taking a vote on increasing his salary. Mayor Douglas said East Prairie could not compete with the city of Booneville money-wise, adding that money had to be borrowed in July in order to meet payroll expenditures.

Miss Mary Moore inquired of city plans to remedy the sewer problem at the intersection of North and Williams St. Mrs. Douglas said the council plans to apply for funds from the Environmental Protection Agency for sewer improvements.

Police officers Tom Shemoniax, Bill Grissom and Jim Baker were present at the meeting and presented a proposal for the formation of a police cadet program for boys ranging in age from 13-17. Strong council approval was given to the proposed project and the men said they would seek additional information and report to the council at a later date.

The highway patrol said the accident occurred when Mabel Hinkle, 48, of Des Arc lost control of her northbound car which ran off the road.

The driver received serious injuries, and a passenger, Clarence Miller, 87, of Des Arc, suffered minor injuries.

Both were taken to Madison County Memorial Hospital at Fredericktown.

Former Wyatt man back in custody

CAIRO, Ill. - A Wyatt, Mo., native is back in custody after almost a year of freedom following arrest by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents in Indianapolis, Ind.

Arrested for failing to return to a North Carolina prison, after being released on a visit permit on Aug. 3, 1973 to visit his grandchildren, was Chares P. "Rocky'. Rothschild.

The 49-year-old former Cairo Policeman, juvenile officer and football referee had been serving a life term for the robbery- death of a mountain merchant at Shut-in, N.C., near the Tennessee line.

Rothschild made national headlines on July 4, 1958, when he confessed to the murder of a merchant in Jefferson, Ga., just before a house painter was due to be executed for the slaying.

He served 10 years of a life sentence in Georgia for that crime. His confession spared the life of James Fulton Foster of Greer, S.C., who was to have been executed. Foster then received a directed verdict of acquittal in his third trial for the slaying of a merchant, Charles Drake Sr.

Rothschild had been in prison in Columbia, S.C., on a burglary conviction when he signed a statement that he had killed Drake at Drake's home two years earlier.

He was paroled in Georgia then trasferred to the North Carolina prison system five years ago to serve life for the robbery-death of a merchant in Shunt-in, N.C.

Rothschild was fired from the Cairo police force in 1953, and he then became a juvenile officer with the Illinois Youth Commission. He served in that capacity during the middle 1950s.

While on the Cairo police force Rothschild reportedly drove a motorcycle and checked parking meters, shortly after meters were installed in Cairo.

He lived most of his life in Cairo, after moving from Wyatt at the age of 6.

He was never arrested in Cairo, but in 1958 was arrested for crimes he had allegedly committed in Georgia and South Carolina.

He was serving a life sentence for first degree burglary at the time of his escape. The merchant died of a heart attack during the robbery.

Commerce audit completed

JEFFERSON CITY - State Auditor John D. Ashcroft has completed and sent to the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration the audit of a disaster claim submitted by the city of Commerce.

The report recommends reimbursement of $2,890 under guidelines set by the federal-state disaster assistance agreement.

Ashcroft, through an agreement between the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) and the state of Missouri, audits work and repairs completed by political subdivisions as a result of last year's floods and high winds.

Commerce had submitted a claim of $3,127 for expenses incurred in performing repairs. OEP approved an estimated amount of $2,890 also. Ashcroft's audit comments on the additional claims and recommends that OEP make a final determination on the eligible reimbursement.

Bloomfield man killed

DEXTER - E. R. Dukes, 60, of Bloomfield Route Two was killed at approximately 6:30 a.m. today when he was accidentally struck by a fork lift truck prior to starting his first day of employment at the Swift and Co. processing plant located at 1001 E. Stoddard St.

Stoddard County Coroner Ray Rainey said the accident occurred while plant superintendent James Hokseh was showing Dukes his duties at the plant.

Dukes then pulled off his coat and took it to his car. While returning from the car he stepped directly into the path of a forklift truck operated by plant employe Amos Bell.

Dukes was taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital, where he was pronounced dead. His body was then taken to Chiles-Cooper Funeral Home in Bloomfield, where funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Certain parcels will not be on county tax books

BENTON -- The Scott County Court decided Thursday not to place parcels that can't be described in the usual manner of describing land on the county real estate tax books.

The county judges said developers of subdivisions in the county who haven't filed a survey plat with the recorder must do so.

According to the judges, the revised Missouri statutes require subdivisions to be surveyed and recorded. By doing this, it protects future landowners.

Presiding Judge Les Lankford stated that if a subdivision has not been surveyed, it will be up to the court to hire the county surveyor to plat the ground, with the cost being added to the tax payer's bill.

The court announced that it has received payment for the blacktopping of a road in the Vester Phillip's subdivision adjoining Morley, but reported the payment was $120 short.

The total cost of the blacktopping was $1,800, and the court received a check in the amount of $1,680.

Jack Holder of Illmo, a trash hauler, told the court he would try to pay the $1,800 bill he owes for dumping refuse from Cape Girardeau at the county sanitary landfill by Jan. 1.

Holder was informed by the court last week that he would no longer be permitted to dump at the Cape Girardeau refuse because he had accumulated an unpaid bill of $1,800 following an agreement he made last December to pay $5 for each load of refuse he dumped.

Following negotiations with Holder, the court agreed to reduce his bill to $1,540 but will not permit him to dump refuse from Cape Girardeau until the bill is paid.

Man held for possession of 4 pounds marijuana

BENTON - Arthur Wayne Presley of Oran is being held in Scott County Jail today following his arrest Thursday afternoon for possession of four pounds of marijuana.

Presley was arrested after Chief of Police Dolph Webb of Oran and Dave Sanders, Scott County deputy, received a tip that he would be receiving a package in the mail this week that contained drugs.

Sanders said that after receiving the information he contacted the postal inspectors at Cape Girardeau to place a mail cover on anything addressed to Presley.

At 1:15 p.m. Friday, Chief Webb and Sanders were notified that a package had come in by United Parcel Post addressed to Presley.

On the first attempt to deliver the package to Presley's home another man came to the door and the UPS employe made up another name to whom he was trying to deliver the package.

Later in the afternoon a second attempt was made at the home but no one was there.

According to Sanders, he knew where Presley was employed in Sikeston so he rode in the parcel post truck down to where he worked.

When the UPS employe arrived at the business, he said he had a package to deliver to Presley and according to Sanders Presley signed for the package.

Sanders said after the UPS employe left the building, he asked Presley where his boss was and followed him through the building.

He said he then identified himself and told Presley he had received information the package contained drugs and asked him to open it.

Presley told him it contained work clothes from California and after opening the package officers found the marijuana and an unidentified white powder.

The substance has been turned over to the Southeast Missouri Law Enforcement Assistant Council Crime Lab at Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau for identification.

PRESS FREEDOM
IN PERU

Freedom, including freedom of the press, is indivisible. So it is that the recent seizure of Peru's eight major independent newspapers by that country's military regime is a threat to freedom of the press everywhere.

"Without question this is the greatest crisis the Inter American Press Association has faced since Fidel Castro took over the press of Cuba 14 years ago," wrote James B. Canel, general manager of the IAPA, to affiliated newspapers. Canel's colleague who is head of IAPA, Robert Brown, put the meaning of the takeover succinctly: "The people of Peru are the losers."

The press takeover by dictator Juan Velasco came after the government had already taken control of radio, television, a magazine and another newspaper. It came about when police and troops in full battle gear surrounded the newspaper offices. Their military preparations were appropriate to the occasion: truth is indeed a fearful enemy of oppressors.

The takeover, of the eight papers, which are now being run by government officials, followed Velasco's anger over critizism of his regime's flirtation with Marxism. He has in his own brutal way won this round, and he may win the next one as well.

But Velasco's days are numbered to a precious few. Truth is a invaluable commodity, and our hope is that the people of Peru will demand to own it once more, whatever the cost.

Americans suffering from high blood pressure - an estimated 23 million - will be interested to know that drugs found helpful in treating the disease are currently available in Great Britain. But bureaucrats at the Food and Drug Administration refuse to approve them, despite the fact that they have been safe and effective in British testing. This shocking situation was outlined last week by a government doctor, Dr. Edward R. Freis, senior medical investigator at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Washington, who was deservedly outraged: 60,000 Americans die annually from high blood pressure.

More than two weeks have passed since the U. S. Supreme Court refused Judge Otto Kerner's appeal of his 1973 conviction for mail fraud, tax evasion, conspiracy and perjury, yet not one member of the liberal- dominated House Judiciary Committee has voiced a desire to save the taxpayers $42,500 per year by impeaching the soon-to-be imprisoned ex-Illinois governor.

Under the Constitution a federal judge cannot be removed from office except by death, resignation or impeachment. Thus, although he has been involved in no work as a Court of Appeals judge, and has no staff or office since his 1971 indictment, Kerner remains on the federal payroll.

It is quite conceivable that Kerner, who has consistently refused to resign from his judgeship, could go to prison, yet remain on the federal payroll. Unless, of course, public indignation makes Judiciary Chairman Peter Rodino (D.-N. J.) take action to remove the once- powerful Illinois politico in the Democratic party.

CAUGHT OUT OF UNIFORM

Even George Washington had trouble with "streakers." An aide's book containing Washington's orders to the Continental Army in Massachusetts is the source of this footnote to history, dated Aug. 22, 1775:

"The General does not mean to discourage the practice of bathing while the weather is warm ... but he expressly forbids any person doing it at or near the bridge in Cambridge, where it has been observed and complained of that many men, lost to all sense of decency and common modesty,are running about naked upon the bridge while passengers and even ladies of the first fashion in the neighborhood are passing over it, as if they meant to glory in their shame."

The directive was discovered by archivist Howard H. Wehmann of the National Archives in Washington in the course of researching material for the 1976 Bicentennial and reported in the National Observer.

May it serve as the last comment on the streaking fad.

A NEED FOR PSYCHOLOGICAL CONTROL

Once again an attempt to persuade the Missouri General Assembly that psychologists should be licensed by the state appears to have failed. This inaction leaves Missouri without official control over an important scientific discipline.

As a practical matter psychologists are licensed. But the certification is done by the Missouri Psychological Association. The association's role is better than nothing. But it is not a substitute for state sanction. The association has led in the effort to get a bill passed that would establish state licensing procedure.

Most states, including Kansas, regulate this profession. Even though the opposition has not been visible in recent years the legislation in Missouri seems to get bogged down. In past sessions the House has acted favorably but the Senate has been the stumbling block.

In the current Legislature a House bill has been approved by a committee and is awaiting debate on the floor. Many bills are ahead of the proposal and it appears unlikely that it could clear the legislative process before adjournment late in April.

Psychology, involving as it does the human mind and emotions, is far too important an endeavor to leave untended. If the legislation is not enacted into law this year, as it appears it will not be, supporters should make a new try next year. Perhaps legislators will realize the significance of the matter eventually.

AMERICAN'S FARM STRENGTH

An agricultural milestone was passed in 1971 when the American Farm Bureau Federation rang up its two millionth member family. This is almost certain to have a substantial influence on the continuing growth and stability of U.S. agriculture in the years to come.

It is a tribute to the American Farm Bureau Federation that it has grown steadily in membership during an evolutionary period in agriculture which has seen the number of farms decline from 6.8 million in 1935 to about 2.9 million in 1971. Moreover, the policies and programs of the Farm Bureau have played no small part in improving agricultural efficiency so that as the number of farmers declined food production in the U.S. is now greater than it has ever been. The Farm Bureau represents -- and advocates -- basic principles of agricultural independence. And its members support a market-oriented farm economy. They believe in a minimum of governmen controls and regulations. Spokesmen for the Farm Bureau have reiterated again and again their support of federal farm legislation that would relieve farmers and all of the nation's taxpayers of costly politically- managed farm programs.

In passing the two- million member mark, the American Farm Bureau Federation gives evidence not only of its own vitality and continuing purpose but provides encouragement to those who believe agriculture and the American farm remain one of the strongest bulwarks of individual liberty and a primary source of this country's abundance.

FARMERS MUST LIVE TOO

Food prices have risen, but before condemning farmers and ranchers and threatening them with a wave of controls, a few facts must be considered if the nation whishes to continue eating in the style to which it has become accustomed.

Foremost among these facts is that farm prices still remain at preinflation low levels. Food prices have risen because of inflationary increases in handling costs. The plight of the farmer is well expressed in an article appearing on the editorial page of a major daily newpaper. It is pointed out that, "Farmers and ranchers are expected to stay on the land rather than join the job-seekers in the city.... On the other hand, farmers and ranchers are not expected to make more money ever because if they do the cost of food will go up. When beef prices rise to levels of 20 years ago, the protest is loud and clear... Bear in mind that farmers and ranchers are consumers, too, and as consumers their expenses have gone up more than 100 percent during the same period that prices they receive for their products have remained stable."

The conclusion reached in the article quoted above is much to the point--the food we buy today is one of the best bargains in the marketplace, ".... even if beef prices have climbed up to 1952 levels."

"Of course," the younger woman replied, I'll be gald to." And she did although feeling a little silly at the time.

When she finished eating and went to the register to pay her bill, the attendant said, "That'll be $6.45—your burger and Coke plus the things your mother took with her."

GOOD TAX NEIGHBOR

Tax increases at the state government level reached an uprecedented $5 billion in 1971. The inexorable upward march of local taxation now threatens home ownership, local business enterprises and the welfare of every individual in the community. This fact makes immeasurably more significiant the items in local newspapers recording the tax payments at the community level by local industries.

Among the largest of these taxpayers are investor-owned power companies. From the Pacific to the Atlantic and from Canada to Mexico, pick up the local newspaper at taxpaying time and there will very likely be an item on the taxes paid by the local power company. In the Sandersville, Georgia, Progress, such as item appears telling how an investor-owner, taxpaying electric company in its area paid $36,533 in local 1971 property taxes. The $36,000 was part of approximately $18,850,000 in property taxes paid by the Georgia company at the state, municipal and county level. Some $6.3 million in tax payments were made to 409 cities, towns and communities with which the company has franchise agreements, under which it pays each municipality a percentage of its gross revenue in addition to property tax payments. The company's total tax bill for 1971 including federal, state, county and municipal payments exceeded $55 million.

This is just one company of hundred of investor-owned electric utilities throughout the U.S. that helps to make soaring local tax burdens easier for the average citizen to bear.

THE SAXBE
ALERT

Atty. Gen. William Saxbe has told the nation that the police and courts have worked hard to control crime but that the effort has not succeeded. The crime problem, he said, is something the people must become conscious of and make citizens' efforts to curtail. He had no specific suggestions but at least the attorney general is thinking along the right lines. Make the people aware of the dangers and they will get behind law enforcement efforts and the problem will be solved. That is something this column has urged for years.

Mr. Saxbe's comments on the crime picture came in wake of an announcement by the Federal Bureau of Investigation that criminal offenses jumped 15 percent the first quarter of 1974. The figures were in comparison with the same period of 1973. Earlier Mr. Saxbe had announced that the crime rate for all of 1973 showed a six percent increase over 1972.

The attorney general decried the decrease in public morality. He said that many criminals had found that "crime does pay." He urged stronger punishment for those who are convicted of criminal offenses. In this he is correct. The multiple offender must be kept off the streets.

Citizen cooperation with police has made some headway in recent years but we must step up this process. In many cities, patrolmen assigned to beats meet with residents and merchants to discuss the problems of crime and security and this is paying dividends. Citizens are told to mark property so it can be easily identified and reclaimed from arrested felons. There are many ways this beat relationship is healthy. The crusade against crime needs to get off the ground and get the felon in jail.

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

by Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
How It Came About

WASHINGTON -- The dramatic events can now be told, which led to the pardoning of Richard Nixon.

The former President didn't participate in the conversations at San Clemente but let his loyal aide Ronald Ziegler do the talking for him.

Not until the parleying had been completed did a taut, troubled Nixon put in an appearance to murmur his thanks. He didn't even mention the pardon. Nor did he ask about the fate of his former aides who face trial on September 30 for the alleged crimes that he no longer can be prosecuted for.

In an earlier column, we detailed the reasons that President Ford granted his predecessor a blanket pardon. The overriding reason, according to our White House sources, was to save Nixon from a possible emotional collapse.

But the President's lawyers, Philip Buchen and Benton Becker, wanted a "contrition statement" from Nixon as part of the pardon agreement.

They were concerned that he might aggravate the Watergate controversy by proclaiming his innocence once it was no longer possible for the courts to establish his guilt. As one White House source put it bluntly: "We wanted to avoid the Ted Agnew bull -- of protesting his innocence all over the country."

The question of contrition was brought up delicately with Nixon's crack criminal attorney Herbert "Jack" Miller. They didn't want to make it a condition of the pardon, so they merely suggested that a cleansing statement from Nixon would be helpful.

On September 5, Becker and Miller flew out to San Clemente for the final negotiations. White House aides say President Ford's parting instructions to Becker were: (1) he should not promise Nixon a pardon but should inform him only that a pardon was possible; and (2) Becker should stress that the Watergate case was an "albatross" which Ford wanted to remove from around his neck so he could concentrate on solving other problems.

The two lawyers arrived at San Clemente at 11 p.m., California time, and immediately went into a three-hour huddle with Ronald Ziegler. After the discussions broke up at 2 a.m., Becker and Miller drank a couple of beers and then retired to guest rooms in the San Clemente compound.

Becker was up at 5:30 a.m. to telephone a progress report to Buchen at the White House. Later the talks resumed in Ziegler's office. Frequently, Ziegler and Miller would slip out of the room for whispered consultations, perhaps with the President. At one point, Becker showed Miller an advance draft of the pardon statement that the President might issue.

An understanding ultimately was reached that a pardon, if the President agreed to it, would be followed by a statement of contrition from San Clemente. The contents, if not the exact language, of the statement were carefully worked out.

The details were also finalized for giving Nixon eventual custody of his presidential tapes and documents, with safeguards to assure that they would be available to the courts.

All the agreements were completed before President Ford's weary emissary sat down with Nixon himself. Before Becker and Miller were ushered into Nixon's office, they were cautioned to keep the meeting informal.

They found Nixon mentally alert but terribly tired and distraught. Ziegler stood at the door while the others sat and talked.

"Thank you for being fair," Nixon murmured to the 36-year- old Becker. "You are a fine young man."

He was pleased with the agreement to give him custody of his presidential papers, but he made no mention of the pardon or the plight of his former aides.

In a few minutes, it was over. History had been made.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: Whispers have reached us that President Ford, while he was Vice President, spent a weekend at Hawaii's fashionable Maunakea Beach Hotel last May at the expense of U.S. Steel's top man in Washington, William G. Whyte. It is true that Whyte paid the bill, which ran over $1,000, because some of his charges had been added to Ford's bill. But we have established that Ford subsequently sent Whyte a check for about $350 once his correct share of the bill had been calculated ... The Greeks are deadly serious about closing their bases to NATO. In the past, the United States routinely flew F5 fighters, purchased by the shah of Iran, to the air base outside Athens on the way to Iran. But the Greek government has now secretly notified Washington that such landings no longer will be permitted. Result: the Pentagon is preparing to crate the fighters and fly them in C5 cargo planes to the shah ...

The defense ministers of several European nations will come to the United States this fall to inspect the small YF-16 and YF-17 fighter planes. At stake is several billion dollars worth of business, which could go to the United States or France ... Belgian officials have notified the French, according to intelligence reports, that they would look more favorably upon France's Mirage F1 fighters if Paris would cease its stubborn ways and participate more fully in the NATO logistics system.

Inside Labor

by Victor Riesel

Challenging the President; Ford Caught in Middle Of Labor's Tough Civil War.

WASHINGTON — For President Ford, this is the fifth season, the worst of all possible times. With expletives deleted, his counterinflation summits, mini and maximum, are now being called "bull" by the angered Teamsters chief Frank Fitzsimmons, who last week decided to reject the President's invitation to the Wednesday White House labor conference; personally boycott the session, and make it perfectly obvious by flying out to a regional truck drivers parley.

He asked his peppery second-in- command "Dusty" Miller, the Brotherhood's general secretary- treasurer, to attend instead. Dusty was delighted. Immediately he did his homework, decided to prepare a statement kicking around Congress for increasing its annual expenses by $48 million and to demand a price rollback with a subsequent wage-price freeze.

Thus Fitz, president of the nation's biggest and most powerful international union, in his own fashion, challenged the President to choose between him and the immovable AFL-CIO president George Meany as the Oval Office's favorite labor chief. Or, at least, most heeded one.

Actually there are a hundred headlines buried in this simple maneuver. It leaves Jerry Ford, at this grim moment, square in the midst of a civil war inside labor which is much like being caught in an Irish hurling game (30 men wielding hockey stick- type shillelaghs). If the Teamsters balk, there appears to be little sense in having some of the mini-summits such as construction industry and transportation. The drivers union could decide not to transport very much at some very critical moments.

Fitzsimmons has a tough hide. But some of Meany's political and intra-union acupuncture is getting to him. In the first place, Meany said the other day that he considers Labor Secretary Peter Brennan, in effect, a nonperson and the Secretary's chair is vacant as far as the AFL-CIO is concerned.

At which point or thereabouts, Mr. Ford's summit staffers proceeded to downgrade Pete Brennan — who is there because the Teamsters sponsored him. At least that's what Dick Nixon told me in the theater one night, oh, so long ago.

For example, those who did the scheduling for the Sept. 11 labor mini- summit put Brennan in for a five-minute presentation between 10 and 10:05 a.m. He also was given some breathing space for the afternoon session. But he was not scheduled to chair any section of the labor conference, in the East Room, even after President Ford left.

That's not much for a cabinet member in his own field of expertise - especially since Mr. Ford had dispatched him to New Zealand during the critical planning stage last week, to attend the funeral of a Prime Minister for reasons not quite apparent to anyone.

Further, other cabinet members are running the mini-summits in their areas. So to Fitz there was no doubt that Meany's distaste for the Labor Secretary resulted in the downgrading of his (Fitzsimmons's) protege.

Actually Fitz is saying to friends that "Ford missed the boat, he should have slapped on some controls to keep prices down immediately or at least given himself the power or asked Congress for control authority. These conferences are just more discussions and nothing will happen at the summit."

All this interplay comes at a particularly sensitive moment for the giant Teamsters organization. Publicly Meany has been rushing to the defense of the tiny United Farm Workers and the fragile Cesar Chavez. There is more here than the names Meany called Fitzsimmons and the truck drivers union at a Chavez luncheon Monday. Meany denounced Teamsters members in the California fields as "scabs." That's like calling the D. A. R. pornographic.

Further, Meany said the Teamsters were the agents of the growers -- meaning the employers. That's rough talk. But not as tough as calling on unions all over the free world to boycott table grapes and non-Chavez lettuce picked by Teamsters members.

Meany actually called on American unions, which are members of International Trade (union) Secretariats, to launch this boycott immediately. Thus, not only are unions everywhere urged to boycott the purchase of such grapes and lettuce in England, France, Germany, Sweden, et al., but Meany's appeal is to foreign longshoremen and transport workers not to unload or transport them inland.

The Teamsters aren't going to stand for such tactics, obviously. Such boycotts could cost them thousands of jobs in the fields, the canneries and on the trucks. Such a concerted anti-Teamster operation could cost them prestige in the international as well as the domestic arena. Further, if the legend of the Teamsters' invincibility is cut jagged, the Teamsters' primacy in the construction field could be paralyzed.

Much of course depends on Meany's success across the world and at home. Meany keeps insisting on the showdown. This is his crusade. So the Teamsters see this as a showdown between him and them.

So Fitzsimmons, though disliking the thought of angering an American President, has begun to operate on the principle that a friend of my enemy is my enemy. The Teamsters Brotherhood may do some boycotting of their own.

Ann witnesses operation done under acupuncture

Today I saw it for the first time. As a delegate of the American Medical Association, I witnessed an operation performed under acupuncture. It was a thyroidectomy. The patient was a woman, age 34. She had one needle between each thumb and index finger, and one in each wrist, all connected to an electric stimulator. The operating room was not air- conditioned and the patient was perspiring profusely. A nurse periodically mopped the patient's face with a damp cloth. Although I was dressed in surgical garb and mask, they allowed me to carry a fan -- the same one I had used the previous day when we visited a pigsty in a commune.

I was standing less than a foot from the patient's head and proceeded to fan her. She gave me a pleasant smile and said in Chinese, "Thank you very much." I asked her if she felt any pain. She replied, "No, just a little numb."

Dr. Claude Welch, the distinguished surgeon from Mass. General in Boston, and President of the American College of Surgeons, said the goiter was very large and the surgical team was doing a fine job.

We witnessed another acupuncture operation, however, which did not go so well. The patient was having part of her lung removed. Dr. Pepper Jenkins, of Parkland Hospital in Dallas and former President of the American Society of Anesthesiologists, stood at the elbow of the doctor in charge of monitoring the equipment. Midway through the operation it became apparent that the patient was in serious trouble. Dr. Jenkins immediately became part of the team. He helped administer the oxygen and the patient was given an injection of Demerol. We checked later that day and learned that she had "made it" but it was a very close call.

Much has been written about acupuncture as the new miracle anesthesia. The members of our delegation agreed unanimously that it has merit in selected cases, but they believe acupuncture is more an analgesic (pain reducer) than an anesthetic, and it is not likely to become widely used in Western surgery.

As Dr. Michael DeBakey pointed out when he visited The People's Republic several months ago, only about one-third of the surgical patients are suitable candidates. They must be stoic in nature, have a suggestible bent of mind (in the same sense that some people are not suitable subjects for hypnosis) and they must be in reasonably good physical condition.

It should be remembered that acupuncture has been used as a "cure" in China for centuries, but as an anesthetic it has been in use only since 1958. Moreover, it was virtually discontinued in 1960 when Liu Shao-Ch'i and other counter- revisionists deemed it "unscientific and of no practical value." In 1966, Mao ordered the technique revived and used in all hospitals and rural areas.

The Chinese physicians with whom we spoke made no extravagant claims. They told us they use acupuncture for surgery in only about 15 per cent of their major operations. "How does it happen that you have six going on this morning?" asked Dr. John Cowan, former Navy Admiral, now A.M.A.'s Director of International Medicine. "Because you American doctors are visiting us," was the frank reply.

The only time we felt the Chinese were trying to sell us a bill of goods was in the curing of congenital deafness with acupuncture. We visited a school for deaf children and they were adorable. The electrical gadgets and Rube Goldberg paraphernalia, however, were labeled "pure hokum" by our delegation.

Dr. Jay Arena, a world-famous pediatrician from Duke University, said, "There is a possibility that a child whose hearing has been damaged might be helped somewhat by nerve stimulation, but to date, there is no way that a child born deaf can be made to hear with acupuncture treatments or anything else."

St. Denis Catholic Church is setting

Benton couple marries

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Glastetter

BENTON - St. Denis Catholic Church was the setting at 1 p.m. Aug. 17 when the wedding vows of Therese Ziegler and Raymond Glastetter were solemnized. The Rev. Ray Kunkel performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Ziegler of Benton, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Clara L. Glastetter of Benton and the late Leon Glastetter.

Music was provided by Eva Richards of Benton and Karen Brucker of New Hamburg at the organ. Guitarist was David Beardslee of Illmo. Debbie Urhahn and Gregory Scherer of Benton were soloists.

As guests entered, programs of the wedding ceremony were handed out by Misses Laura and Tina Kenkel of Kelso.

The couples' parents escorted them down the white carpeted aisle through a gold arch filled with greenery.

The bride wore a formal-length gown of white sheer organza and Chantilly lace trimmed with seed pearls and crystals. It featured an empire waistline, high lace-edged neckline and sheer organza Bishop sleeves with cuffs. The shoulder-length veil fell from a florette headpiece. She carried a cascade of red roses, pixie carnations and lilies of the valley with fern greenery and satin ribbons.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister-in- law, Janie Ziegler of Poplar Bluff. Bridesmaids were Lanora Ziegler of Scott City, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mary Hillman of St. Charles, cousin of the bride.

The attendants wore formal-length gowns of flocked organza printed with tiny clusters of roses over a solid-colored underlining. The empire waist was trimmed with a satin ribbon which formed a bow in the back. Ruffles around the neckline and hem accented the short puffy sleeves. Each carried a long- stemmed rose with greenery and a satin ribbon matching the color of their dresses.

Karen Litzler of St. Louis, niece of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a dress styled like those worn by the bridesmaids and carried a white wicker basket of flowers.

Brian Ziegler of Orleans, Ind., god-child and nephew of the bride, was ringbearer. He carried a satin heart-shaped pillow with the wedding rings.

The groom chose his brother, Jim Glastetter of Benton, as best man. Groomsmen were Ralph Ziegler, of Scott City, brother of the bride, and Dennis Glastetter of Benton, brother of the groom.

The groom wore a grey and white King George tuxedo with white ruffled shirt and red rosebud boutonniere. The groomsmen wore dark grey King George tuxedos with ruffled shirts and rosebud boutonnieres which matched the color of the bridesmaids' dresses.

Following the exchange of vows, the couple together lit a unity candle, signifying marriage in Christ and that the two now become one.

After the ceremony, the bride placed a flower, as a special memento, in front of the statues of the Blessed Virgin Mary and Ste. Terese the Little Flower, her patron sainte.

Betty Glastetter of Cape Girardeau attended the guest book at the reception.

Kathleen Heisserer, Kathy Gosche, Marilyn Brucker and Margie Gosch of New Hamburg served the three-tiered wedding cake decorated in shades of violet, red, orange and yellow. On either side of the cake were miniature bridesmaids and groomsmen on a stairway of lighted candles. On top of the cake was a miniature bride and groom inside a laced bell.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

If you're an ecology enthusiast and you're keeping records, combs are biodegradable.

They biodegrade so fast at our house, they often disappear right out of your hand.

This is only a conservative figure, mind you, but I spend on the average of five hours a day looking for a comb. Standing in the middle of the bathroom every morning I say to myself, "If you were a shy comb where would you hide?" Then I check the bottom of the clothes hamper, the top of the breadbox, in a trouser pocket under the bed, in the sewing basket, and once I even found one by the bathroom sink.

It wasn't always this way. When the kids were smaller they felt if God had meant for you to comb your hair with a comb He would never have given you five adjustable fingers and nails to make a part. But then they discovered combs and, frankly, I don't like what it has done to our family.

It has turned brother against brother, husband against wife, and mother against the whole crummy bunch. I said tc my husband one morning, "Have you seen the comb?" (Notice, we give it singular distinction like, "Have you seen thequeen?" The Pope? The pyramids?" etc.)

"Not in a week," he said patting his hair down with his hand.

When I returned to the bathroom suddenly, I saw him sneaking a comb out of hiding under the sink that was jammed between a hot water bottle and a shoeshine kit.

I couldn't believe it. This is the man whose children I had borne, who promised to love and cherish me through Spock and Stillman. . .whom I had nursed through 18 income tax returns, who shared my bed. . .my toothpaste. . .my deodorant, but who hid his comb from me.

In his guilt he said, "Would you believe it wasn't here yesterday?"

I called the children together, "Daddy has the comb. He had it all the time."

The last time I saw a look on a child's face like that was when Alan Ladd refused to use his gun in Shane.

"Didn't you know what not having a comb could do to us?" I asked. "Suppose I had to answer the door."

"You could have worn a hat and told them you had brain surgery," he said.

"May the teeth in your comb rot and fall out," I said stiffly. "Come children. I know where there is a hairbrush."

Cards obtain 'Mo-Mentum'

NEW YORK (AP) — So who needs sleep?

Certainly not the St. Louis Cardinals, who ignored some bloodshot eyes and a muffled yawn or two to batter the New York Mets 12-5 and move a game closer to Pittsbufgh and the National League East Division lead Thursday night.

After struggling a record 25 innings and 7 hours, 4 minutes to beat New York Wednesday night and early Thrusday morning, the Cards came back to kayo the Mets again in a more conventional nine innings and 2:57 Thursday night.

"That's a doubleheader sweep today," decided Joe Torre as the Cards packed up for a post-midnight bus ride to Philadelphia. They remembered to take an important rooke named "Mo Mentum" along.

Mo had a big series in New York, In both games, the Cardinals trailed the Mets on the field, and the Pirates on the scoreboard. Both times, the games turned and instead of Pittsburgh winning and St. Louis losing, the roles were reverse. The cards were 3½ games behind when they arrived inNew York and only 1½ back when they left town.

"Sure, you watch the scoreboard," said Torre, "But you don't have any control over it. The game you have to win is the one you're playing. That's the one you can control. It's like going up in an airplane. Your last decision is getting on. After that, it's out of your control."

The Mets almost got out of the Cardinals' control Thursday night, jumping Bob Gibson for a 4-0 lead behind Jon Matlack after five innings. Then they woke up Mo Mentum.

Ted Sizemore opened the sixth with a single and trotted home on Reggie Smith's 22nd home run. Two singles, a couple of walks and a passed ball made it 4-3 and St. Louis had the bases loaded with two out when rookie Keith Hernandez tagged a long fly to center field. Dave Schneck shadow-boxed the ball into a bases-clearing three-run error and the Cards were on top to stay.

St. Louis added three runs in the eighth and three more in the ninth while reliever Al Hrabosky was pitching hitless relief over the last four innings for the Cardinals. Hrabosky, who earned his seventh save, has allowed only on earned run in his last 34-1-3 innings pitched, dating back to July 13.

"We proved somthing big to ourselves here," the lefty reliever said, "You go 25 innings, you're just not supposed to win extra inning games on the road like that. Then tonight, the guys are tired, but still come back and win again. If everybody was dragging, when we were down 4-0 against an excellent pitcher like Matlack, well you almost concede the game in a way. But we came back."

Winning pitcher Bob Gibson thinks the Cardinals can catch Pittsburgh. "We've got to play every game like it was the World Series," he said.

If they do, the Cards are liable to find themselves in the World Series. "I'd like another world series," Gibson continued. "I know I don't have much longer to play. I think if we got into it, we'd win it." "Mo Mentum" had to agree.

Missouri Football Facts

Compliments Of

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Following last year's 34-17 Sun Bowl rout of Auburn, Missouri's Tigers took dead aim on the Big Eight crown. Coach Al Onofrio has 38 lettermen returning from last season's squad that finished 8-4, and the Tigers could be ready to roar through the conference.

The Missouri offense will be led by senior fullback, Ray Bybee, who gained 690 yards last year to lead all Tiger running backs. Bybee was named the game's most valuable back in the Sun Bowl.

For many year's the Tigers have depended on a tremendous defense; this year will be no exception. Missouri has nine starters returning, and they should make life rough for opposing offenses. The Bengal line is intact and will be anchored by Senior Mark Johnson who made 85 tackles last season; the linebackers will be led by Scott Pickens who led the Tiger defense in tackles last year with 89. The secondary will be manned by Tony Gillick and Kenny Downing.

Bob Blair of Security National had defeated Holland and Archie earlier in the tournament but this time the trick was turned. After the win the final game had to be played and Holland again beat Blair of Security National 7-3 for the championship.

Rams solid favorite

Southeast Missouri's high school football season goes into full swing Friday night and prognostication panel is ready to take a go at it for the following nine weeks of the season.

Returning to the panel this season will be Bobby Gentry, Eddie Smart, Danny Summerfield and John Greer. Stuart McGhee may offer his professional opinion on occasion and of course the 'old' sport's editor, Ron Jaynes will be here and newcomer Earl Henderson, who just recently joined the Daily Standard sports staff to give Bill Harrison and Jaynes a hand this season, will give their opinions. The pro missed the Mules game last week.

CHARLESTON vs PORTAGEVILLE — The Bluejays are fast and tough. They have a new coach in Sam Gill, who has a winning tradition from Arkansas. One guesser went against the Jays and six for. Charleston should take the game by a lopsided score. 35-6. Mr. Smart has the Bulldogs picked to win.

DEXTER vs JACKSON — Coach Paul Webber always has a tough team but so does coach Clyde Vaughn. The Indians always manage to best the Bearcats in the opening game and this should be no different. Five picked the Bearcats and two went for Jackson. Jackson 14, Dexter 7. Greer & Gentry went with the Tribe.

MALDEN vs KENNETT — Kennett is a 7-0 favorite and Bill Arment will agree whole heartedly. Kennett 35, Madden 7. But not really this bad!

PERRYVILLE vs STE. GENEVIEVE — The Pirates are a 6-1 favorite by the panel and should best their leadbelt rival but in a close game. Pirates 21, Ste. Gen. 14. Gentry is the lone dissenter.

POPLAR BLUFF vs SPRINGFIELD Glendale -- The Mules are a 6-2 favorite but after a loss to Fox last week may not be good enough to take on the western power. Glendale 21, Poplar Bluff 7. Summerfield & wild Bill favored the host.

ST. VINCENT'S of PERRYVILLE vs CHAFFEE -- The Red Devils have Charles Vickery for their coach this year and has the boys working hard to rebuild the football prowess that Chaffee had in the past. Three picked the Red Devils and three picked St. Vincent's with the old pro breaking the tie and going with ... CHS, Chaffee 14, St. Vincent's 6.

ILLMO-SCOTT CITY vs EAST PRAIRIE -- Coach Bill Wilthong's Rams are solid 7-0 favorites to keep their unbeaten string intact after last year. The Eagles will play their hearts out but will lose --- 21-12. It will be a good test for both clubs.

THAYER vs DONIPHAN -- The Dons took a beating in Caruthersville last week but will probably handle Theyer. Six to one in favor of the Dons. 21-0. Gentry again bucks the odds.

SIKESTON vs KANSAS CITY LILLIS-- The Bulldogs have a good defense but their offense needs a little polish. Maybe they will have enough offense to take care of Bishop Lillis. The Bulldogs will be facing the biggest team that they will meet in the season. But, the bigger they aare the harder they fall. Kansas City is the favorite by the panel 4-3 but SIKESTON will WIN -- 14-7.

PARKWAY WEST vs CAPE CENTRAL -- The Tigers lost Bill Seabaugh and Steve C Taylor and that means trouble for the Tigers. The panel makes Parkway West 6-1 favorites and that's the way it should be. Parkway Weest 21. Cape Central 7. Smart is the only non- believer.

Squirrels costly at Mingo

Two Fredricktown hunters recently learned about the high price of meat - squirrel meat that is. The two hunters were hunting on Mingo last week and had managed to bag six squirrels when refuge officials met up with them. According to refuge manager Jerry Clawson, a portion of Mingo Refuge is open to hunting, "but these fellows elected to hunt along the boardwalk and up near the new visitor center - over a mile from the public hunting area". The mistake cost them $50.00 each.

In commenting on the fines, Clawson cautioned, hunters planning to hunt on Mingo this fall that only a 6,500 acre portion on the refuge is open to hunting. The area is posted and maps are available at refuge headquarters. If in doubt, about where to hunt, call or write the refuge manager, Mingo National Wildlife Refuge, Puxico, Missouri for additional information.

Mingo National Wildlife Refuge is administered by the Fish and Wildlife Service, U. S. Department of the Interior.

Scripture: Exodus 3;14;19

LIBERATING THE OPPRESSED

The Exodus has become a symbol of liberation for all oppressed people since the days of Moses. God knows and feels the crying voices of oppressed man.

Here is another study of God's call to one man to help Him guide His people to a more peaceful and religious environment.

Although some researchers conclude that the story of Moses contains a few historical errors, it nevertheless is a significant account for us to review.

Israel's birth as a people follows the exodus from Egypt. This history evolves around Moses, whose birth is related in folklore style. Born a Hebrew, Moses was adopted by the daughter of Pharaoh.

The Bible provides the only information about Moses, telling of his early education and association with the Egyptian leaders. He may have been educated in the court circles.

After he killed an Egyptian taskmaster, Moses fled to Midian, where he married the daughter of a priest.

Even the youngest readers of the Bible are acquainted with Moses' call to help God lead His people to freedom.

Moses was minding the flock when he was called to his most challenging assignment. Using a burning bush as a medium of communication, God identified Himself to Moses.

Moses, like many persons called to serve God today, was skeptical of his ability to lead his people from Egypt to a world of freedom. He could not visualize himself appearing before the Pharaoh and demanding freedom for the slaves.

Faith in God makes the oppressed sensitive and responsive to measures of relief. Possibly Moses' faith was overtested when He asked God how he could impress the rulers. God provided the answer with the staff-to-snake miracle.

And like so many today, Moses expressed more doubts. He wasn't a public speaker; he feared presenting himself before the Pharaoh.

"Who is it that gives man speech?" God asked. God did not expect Moses to start his lifelong campaign without His help. "I will tell you what to say," God answered.

The rest of this incident is well known to readers of the Bible, expecially the dividing of the Red Sea to permit the Israelites to flee from the charging Egyptians.

When Moses and his people were safe, God told Moses to close the sea, trapping all the Egyptians.

A great fear came among the Israelites, as they suddenly realized what had happened. Here they were safe on one side of the Red Sea while the Egyptians were lying dead on the other seashore.

After three struggling months, the Israelites reached the wilderness of Sinai. Following careful preparations, Moses went up the mountain to confer with God.

The Ten Commandments were then delivered to the world through Moses. The people were so afraid that they again promised to do everything God asked of them.

Today there is still oppression around the world. Such affairs are not kept secret from God. He is aware of this and from time to time He sends His leaders to help these persons in trouble.

Slavery, or bondage, takes on many forms in today's society. Some young persons become slaves to their families and are not permitted to go out on their own. Others become slaves to their jobs and are afraid to leave the security of one position to tackle a newer, more challenging one.

And others, like Moses, fear their own inadequate backgrounds. Yet to all persons oppressed by any means there is God, always willing to provide the needs for anyone with the faith to follow Him.

Burning bushes are not common today. Yet the oppressed people still call for help.

Historic church plans vesper service Sept. 22

The POWER of FAITH
By WOODI ISHMAEL

THE BIBLE
152. David And Bathsheba
In the spring, David sent his troops to do battle with the Ammonites, but he remained in Jerusalem. One evening, as he walked along the roof of the palace, he saw the beautiful Bathsheba and sent for her. Afterwards, she sent word to King David that she was with child.
Now her husband, Uriah the Hittite, refused to go home while the forces of Israel were at war; instead he kept vigil at the palace gate, though David attempted to lure him home to his wife. Finally, David had Joab place Uriah in the thick of battle, where he would probably be killed. Along with several other soldiers, Uriah was slain as they attacked a walled city.
When Bathsheba learned of her husband's death, she mourned. "And when the mourning was past, David sent and fetched her to his house, and she became his wife, and bare him a son. But the thing that David had done displeased the Lord." (II Samuel 11:27)

Jackson testified that he loaded the gun only after he had discovered Mrs. Jackson was carrying a loaded gun in her purse.

Virgil Leo Mace of Dexter was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail after he pleaded guilty to driving while his license was revoked, his second such conviction in two weeks. Mace will serve his jail time on weekends, beginning at 9 a.m. on Saturday and ending at 9 p.m. Sunday until the 30 days are served. He was also fined $15.

Preliminary hearing for G. J. Jackson, charged with felonious assault against Ida Lee Jones with a pistol, was set for Sept. 24.

Roger McCullum was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail for stealing less than $50. He will serve one day of jail time, then be paroled under supervision for six months. Another charge of resisting a police officer was dismissed against McCullum.

Elmer Eugene Green waived a preliminary hearing and was bound over to Circuit Court for trial on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Robert Earl Cox of Essex and Roger Kieth Turman of Bernie paid fines of $15 each for careless and imprudent driving.

Kay Weathers of Bernie and Edwin Larry Beal of Painton were fined $15 each for driving without a license. Beal also paid a $100 fine for driving while intoxicated.

Hershel Steven Babb of Ft. Leonard Wood was fined $10 for operating a motorcycle without a helmet.

State Democrats have $3,923; owe $29,500

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Democratic Party has $3,923 in the bank and owes $29,500, says a report of the Democratic State Committee's audit committee.

From July 1, 1973, to Sept. 10, 1974, the state committee received $128,093 and spent $125,510.

The committee started the fiscal year with $1,340 in the bank.

The birthday dinner for former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes in 1973 brought in $25,884, said state treasurer James I. Spainhower. He predicted a similar profit for a victory dinner this November.

Hearnes held his birthday dinner this year in Sikeston and the state committee's balance sheet showed no income from that dinner.

The 1973 Democratic national telethon produced $23,736 for the state committee and this year's telethon will bring in about $12,000 after disbursements are made to the local Democratic committees round the state.

The state committee was able to pay $20,543 toward its 1972 campaign debt.

The biggest cost was $50,150 for wages to committee employes. The biggest income producer was $55,054 from Spainhower's "committee of 10,000" fund-raising program which solicits donations ranging from $5 a month to $1,000 a year.

Luxury liner burns

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The $27 million luxury liner Cunard Ambassador, a fire raging in its interior, wallowed abandoned in the Gulf of Mexico today. Officials feared it might capsize before the fire could be put out.

The blaze, spreading amidships, forced 53 Ambassador crewmen and 40 Coast Guardmen who fought the fire to abandon ship late Thursday as it lay dead in the water 35 miles off Key West. There were no reports of injuries.

The Ambassador, portions of its gleaming white exterior scorched by intense heat, was listing from water pumped aboard as Coast Guard ships stood by through the night.

"The risk of capsizing is a definite one now and it doesn't look good," a Coast Guard spokesman said.

The 480-foot liner was carrying 309 crewmen but no passengers when the fire erupted shortly after dawn on Thursday. Most of the crew were transferred to a passing naval tanker within hours.

The Coast Guard spokesman said the blaze started as the liner rounded the tip of Florida en route from Miami to New Orleans, where it was to pick up passengers for a cruise to Vera Cruz, Mexico. The fire apparently was caused when fuel spewed from a ruptured line and ignited when it hit the hot diesel engine, the spokesman said.

Capt. Robert Howard ordered most of the crew to abandon ship soon afterward. Two hours later they were aboard the naval vessel Tallulah, which then continued on course to Fort Lauderdale.

Teens need work law information

KANSAS CITY — With school starting again, teenagers seeking part- time jobs need to know about state and federal laws regulating youth employment, says Doyle I. Loveridge, head of the Department of Labor's Employment Standards Administration regional office in Kansas City.

Laws most directly affecting young employees are state work permit requirements and the Child Labor and Minimum Wage sections of the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act.

"Most states require working youth under age 18 to have a work permit or certificate that lists their age," Loveridge says. "These permits are usually available at local school boards."

In summarizing the Child Labor laws, Loveridge notes that while restrictions would appear to cut a teenager's employment opportunities, "the fact is, 95 per cent of all jobs are open to teenagers."

Child Labor laws specify that:

- 14- and 15- year- olds may work only outside school hours and between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. They may work up to three hours per day during the school week and up to eight hours daily during vacations. Work time should total no more than 18 hours during school weeks and no more than 40 hours during vacation weeks. (Newspaper carriers, golf caddies and performers are exempt from these restrictions.)

- 16- year- olds may work during school hours.

-- No workers under age 18 may participate in the 17 occupations designated as "hazardous" -- such as mining, construction, transportation, processing, work on power-driven machinery or vehicles, etc.

The minimum wage law specifies payment of $2 per hour to workers in occupations covered by the Act before 1966, $1.90 for those added since 1966, and $1.60 per hour for certain farm workers.

"Full- time students, however, may legally be paid less than those rates if the employer holds a certificate allowing payment of a 'student minimum' of 85 per cent of the minimum wage," Loveridge points out. "This may seem unfair, at first," he admits, "but it actually gives student workers a competitive edge."

Loveridge also notes that the minimum wage law requires in most cases overtime payments of one and one- half times the regular rate for any hours worked above 40 in the work week.

Persons who have questions about Child Labor or Minimum Wage provisions are invited to call the nearest Wage- Hour Division office of the U.S. Department of Labor for answers to specific problems.

Sudden infant death explored

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — May I call your attention to your article in the newspaper — "The Sudden Unexplained Crib Death."

I am an R.N., and have been night supervisor in a small general hospital with very limited help, no interns. I was chief of all trades, in a rural area. I had everything imaginable. However, we had a small nursery and I tried to keep close contact as much as possible. On occasion I would find a baby in the crib wedged against the side corner of the crib almost asphyxiated, cyanosed, muscus rolling from its mouth and nose due to the incarceration of same. I was always lucky enough to resuscitate the child.

According to my observation, due to lack of oxygen, as a result of labored respiration, the lungs fill with mucus and when the doctor does a post mortem examination he frequently states the baby died of pneumonia.

This has occurred in older babies, due also to inadequate feeding. They go feeling with their mouths for their bottle until they feel something and progressively work against it until they get wedged up and choke.

Doctors don't think nurses know anything even though we witness the act. We are in close contact with the patient, and we should know some of the symptoms — of course, we are not allowed to judge theoretically, but practically we should judge and give our opinion — A nurse's opinion is never asked.

Please accept my apology if I have overstepped my quotation.

Dear Reader — There are a number of ways in which infants can be asphyxiated and you have described one possible way. However, asphyxiation is not what most people are talking about in terms of sudden infant death. The sudden unexplained problems occur with the baby lying normally in the crib with no indication that there was any other complicating factor, or the baby may die suddenly even, on rare occasions, in the mother's arm.

I would like to emphasize again that in the real sudden unexplained deaths there isn't anything the parents could have done about it, or any other person who is supervising the infant, and there is no reason for them to have guilt feelings about what they could have done, or should have done, or shouldn't have done.

Having said that, I'd like to say that your point is of interest and it's very important for people to appreciate that young infants can get asphyxiated in a number of different ways. Constant vigilence is necessary to protect babies from such problems. You've emphasized a good point about problems of asphyxiation and it certainly is difficult sometimes to tell with ordinary examinations afterwards if that was the real problem.

I don't agree with you that most doctors don't value the nurse's opinion. We depend on their notes, observations, and recognize their invaluable help even in the most critically ill patients, such as their vital role in our coronary care units and intensive care units. Good doctors appreciate a good nurse and that's why so many nurses have been given increased responsibilities, particularly in recent years.

Minnelli autobiography, 'I Remember It Well'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I Remember It Well" is the title of the new autobiography of Vincente Minnelli, who has sometimes been remembered less for his superbly styled movies than for being husband and father of two superstars.

Minnelli was married to Judy Garland from 1945 to 1951. They collaborated on four films and one daughter, Liza, born by Caesarian section on March 12, 1946.

He has also directed such films as "Meet Me in St. Louis," "Madame Bovary," "An American in Paris" (Oscar for best picture, 1951), "Father of the Bride," "The Bad and the Beautiful," "Lust for Life," "Gigi" (best picture, best direction, 1957), "Some Came Running," etc.

With collaborator Hector Arce, Minnelli deals in frank and instructive detail with the hazards of directing for a major studio — he made all but two of his 35 films for MGM. Also the problems of dealing with the industry's censors.

The Production Code Administrator objected to the making of "Gigi" because "all of the characters were unmarried and opposed marriage as an institution," and "the boy had immoral relations with many women and the girl was being trained for life as a mistress."

Father and daughter had hoped to make a film together, but so far it hasn't materialized. Minnelli is considering other projects, admitting that he works to please himself — "but I'm the hardest person to please that I know."

"I was attracted to her open manner, as only a man who has been reserved all his life can be," says Minnelli.

Calley is movie subject

Producer-director Stanley Kramer was giving his interpretation of the misdeeds of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., convicted in the deaths of at least 22 civilians in the My Lai massacre in Vietnam.

The Kramer version will be seen on ABC Television this fall as the third in his series of notable trials.

"What happened?" Kramer mused on the day before starting the taping of the show. "How did William Calley go from Miami, Fla., to My Lai?

"I'm not going to supply any panacea, not even a middle-of-the-road panacea. But I will suggest his basic orientation, which was that the Red Chinese would be occupying San Francisco within two weeks.

"Those soldiers were indoctrinated. Anyone in a village could be the enemy — children, women, old people. The only answer was to 'waste' — kill everything that moved."

Kramer said he is no apologist for Calley, although the two men have become acquainted since the trial. The director has long been fascinated with trials, and he went to Calley's with the intention of staying one day. He remained for five weeks.

"I just saw Calley again two weeks ago at Leavenworth Prison," Kramer remarked. "He said he'll be up for parole in January. Is he bitter? I don't think so. He has matured a lot through the whole experience."

Kramer has a history of dealing with seemingly unpopular issues. He treated bigotry in "Home of the Brave" and "The Defiant Ones," war crimes in "Judgment at Nuremburg," nuclear disaster in "On the Beach," thought control in "Inherit the Wind."

"I lost with 'Nuremburg,' 'On the Beach,' 'Inherit the Wind' and 'Ship of Fools,'" he remarked. "'The Defiant Ones' (Sidney Poitier, Tony Curtis) made money and so did 'Home of the Brave,' but that was because it only cost $350,000.

"I've not won any popularity contests, and I don't expect to win with this particular scene."

After watching the trial, Kramer made a financial arrangement with Calley for the rights to dramatize the story. Originally, a film was planned,

"I felt the subject was more suitable for the 'nowness' of television, and it fit neatly into this series I was doing for ABC," Kramer said.

The series started in January with "The Trial of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg." In June came "The Court Martial of the Tiger of Malaya — Gen. Yamashita."

Tony Musante, late of the "Toma" television series, plays the leading role in "The Court Martial of Lt. William Calley." Richard Basehart is the defense attorney and Bo Hopkins the prosecutor.

Anyone interested may enroll anytime during the day from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Bell City DAEOC Center or by contacting the center by telephone at 733-4565. Classeswill begin as soon as enough enroll.

Lawyers named to committee

Seven area lawyers have been named to the Missouri Bar Judicial Poll Committee, according to Edward Jayne of Kirksville, general chairman of the committee.

The committee will conduct a poll on the performance of judges serving under the non- partisan court plan who will be running for retention in the November general election.

Named to the committee are Tom Gilmore of 205 Salcedo Road, Sikeston; W. Clifton Banta, of Charleston; James A. Vickery of Caruthersville; Harry Bock of New Madrid; Joe C. Welborn of Bloomfield, Wendell Crow of Kennett; and Stephen N. Limbaugh of Cape Girardeau.

What's the law?

The case of the gay drinkers

By JACK STRAUSS, LL. B.

Brian operated a tavern where most of his customers had the gender but not the sex. In fact, a low voice in the crowd usually caused eyebrows to raise. But, none of this particularly bothered convivial Brian.

What did bother him, however, was when the liquor authority tried to close down his operation under a regulation that prohibited homosexuals from congregating in taverns.

"You can't put me out of business," he protested. "I run a tight little bar with perfect decorum. And so long as a person behaves himself, he's got a right to be served and I've got a right to serve him."

"You gotta' be kidding," responded a member of the liquor authority. "When homosexuals get together their mere presence is likely to lead to misconduct. Consequently, the regulation is absolutely proper ... Which is more than can be said for the customers that gather in your tavern."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Brian's tavern to be closed down for being in violation of the gay regulation?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a tavern owner is obliged to make sure that his establishment is operated in a lawful and orderly fashion at the peril of losing his license. Any offensive conduct or improprieties on his premises will produce that result.

Consequently, concluded the judge, the regulation is unnecessary and beyond the public need. It's the conduct of the customer that counts and not who the customer is.

Today in U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Sept. 13, the 256th day of 1974. There are 109 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1788, the U.S. Consitutional Convention authorized the first national election in the United States.

On this date —

In 1759, during the French and Indian war, the British defeated the French on the Plains of Abraham overloooking Quebec.

In 1814, Francis Scott Key was detained aboard a British warship bombarding Fort McHenry, near Baltimore. The next morning he wrote "The Star Spangled Banner."

In 1943, Chiang Kai-shek became President of China.

In 1954, Maine elected its first Democratic governor in 20 years — Edmund Muskie.

In 1955, West Germany and the Soviet Union established diplomatic relations.

In 1960, Republican Presidential nominee Richard Nixon said the American people should accept Democratic nominee John Kennedy's Roman Catholic faith without any further questioning.

Ten years ago: Egypt and Saudi Arabia announced agreement for a peaceful settlement of the two-year-old Yemeni civil war.

One year ago: Israeli and Syrian jets clashed over the Mediterranean in their biggest air battle since the 1967 war.

Today's birthday: Actress Claudette Colbert is 69 years old.

Thought for today: Life is like an onion. You peel it off one layer at a time and sometimes you weep — poet Carl Sandburg.

Fund-raising campaign set

The Tri-County Mental Health Association of Scott, Stoddard and Mississippi counties will hold its fund-raising "Bellringer Campaign" in Scott County from Sept. 21 - 28.

This will be accomplished through door- to- door solicitation and roadblocks in some areas. The 4—H Club will also collect at their Cotton Carnival stand on Sept. 28. The announcement was made by Mrs. Margaret Rowe of Charleston, president.

One in 10 people in the United States have some form of mental illness, ranging from mild to severe, that would benefit from professional help. Twenty-one million families are affected by mental illness from someone in their immediate family - more than one in four. Children also suffer from mental illness in the same proportion as adults; three per cent have severe emotional problems; another eight per cent have less severe problems, but are still unable to function normally.

In cooperation with the State and National Associations for the mental health, the Tri-County Association is developing a coordinated citizens' movement to work toward the improved care and treatment of the mentally ill and handicapped; for improved methods in research prevention, diagnosis and treatment of the mental illness or handicap and for the promotion of mental health.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Farm commodity futures prices were sharply lower in early dealings on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

On the opening, Chicago wheat was unchanged to 11 cents a bushel lower, September 4.33; Gulf hard red wheat was not traded: corn was 3 to 7 lower, September 3.75; oats were 2 to 4 lower, December 1.69 and soybeans were 2 to 7 3/4 lower, September 7.57.

When you are baking a fruit-and-nut quick bread (good to take on picnics) line the bottom of the loaf pan with wax paper because these breads have a tendency to stick. Some cooks like to grease the wax paper but this is not strictly necessary.

Hearing for robbery suspects set today

KENNETT -- A preliminary hearing for three Clarkton men, charged with first degree robbery, was scheduled to be held today in Dunklin County Magistrate Court.

Larry Ray Bolin, Wilford Lee Norton, and Frederick Porter Huckleberry have been charged with first degree robbery stemming from an alleged assault on a Malden youth on Aug. 24, who was robbed of about $10.

Terry Minderman, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Bullard of 311 North Kimball, and William Paul Pope, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Uthoff of 406 East Howard, were reportedly near McGuire on the night of Aug. 24, when their car stalled. The three Clarkton men reportedly stopped and offered assistance. When attempts to start the youth's car failed, the three men suggest the five of them return to Clarkton. Minderman and Pope got into the car with the men and instead of returning to Clarkton, the men turned off onto a gravel road.

Minderman was robbed of about $9 and allegedly was beaten because he did not have more money. The group then drove to Minderman's home and he was allegedly instructed to go inside and take the tape player, rifle, his father's money.

Minderman went inside the house where his father saw his condition and called the police. Bullard told the police that the men were parked in an alley behind his home. The police apparently missed the alley and the men drove off.

After the police left, the men reportedly circled the house several times. They then allegedly took Pope out east on Highway 62 and beat him. Later, when they returned to Malden, they were spotted by the police, Minderman and his father. The arrests followed.

Property to be deeded to highway department

BLOOMFIELD -- The City Council Thursday night passed an ordinance authorizing Mayor J. C. Newcomer to deed to the Missouri Highway Department a small piece of acreage on North Prairie Street.

The deed to the property will enable the highway department to prodeed with plans to build a wider bridge to replace the narrow bridge at the site of the property.

Green beans recalled

Certain cans of Fresh-Like and IGA french style green beans have been recalled from IGA stores in Missouri and Illinois because of under-processing, according to the Food and Drug Administration.

There is a strong possibility that the cans may have been sold in the St. Louis area, a spokesman said Thursday. Fresh-Like cans may also have been distributed to other stores in the area, the spokesman added.

The cans involved in the recall are coded GBM 48 and GBM 49, the spokesman said. The green beans are canned by the Larson Co. of Green Bay, Wis., and come in 12- and 16-ounce cans.

Although a limited number of cans is involved, the spokesman said, consumption of the beans could create a health hazard.

A routine inspection of cans packed at Larson's Cambria, Wis., plant showed that some of the cans of beans were underprocessed, which could allow the growth of micro-organisms.

The FDA said persons who have purchased cans of green beans should not eat them and should return the cans to the stores where they were purchased.

BORN FREE

Mondays, NBC
Television Network
(In Color, 7-8 p.m. CDT

The "Born Free" series is filmed entirely on location in East Africa, a last frontier where adventures and tourists, spies and smugglers, poachers and missionaries, guerilla fighters and savage beasts, the old and the new, the peaceful and violent, co-exist and provide a wealth of story material.

The show is a dramatic adventure series for the entire family and its stories will be filled with humor and sentiment, warmth and love, and, above all, drama.

The hour- long series is based on the romantic and thrilling adventures of George and Joy Adamson, with the lioness Elsa, and other creatures of the African landscape. The Adamson books, "Born Free," "Living Free" and "Forever Free," have sold over 20 million copies in 15 years.

Gary Collins and Diana Muldaur star as the Adamsons. The dramatic stakes of each show will be the life or death of some person or animal the audience cares about. Elsa's violent struggles with a rival lioness; a love story about Masai tribesmen challenging ancient taboos; and a dramatic confrontation between Adamson and a white hunter whose life style is in opposition to the emerging needs of modern Africa provide material for some of the episodes.

BOB HOPE SPECIALS

(In Color, on the NBC Television Network)

The fall of 1974 will mark Bob Hope's 25th year on the NBC Television Network, his 36th year as an NBC star, and another year added to his record of being the all-time long-run champion on the network.

In the 1973-74 season Hope's specials once more chalked up enviable ratings, an achievement which has been a hallmark of the specials since their inception.

Although the Hope Christmas Show for American troops serving overseas, which was a tradition for many years, is no longer part of the over-all plan for Hope specials, he will continue to do an annual vaudeville show, the Bob Hope Desert Classic and several shows direct from the campuses of major colleges and universities. The Bob Hope Desert Classic, which Hope sponsors each year for the benefit of the Eisenhower Medical Center in Palm Springs, as well as other Desert charities, again will be a highlight of the season.

The Bob Hope Specials are produced by Mort Lachman and directed by Dick McDonough. Bob Hope is executive producer.

10:00 WSIU— MOVIE— "The Virgin Spring" Drama. Directed by Ingmar Bergman, based on a medieval ballad. A young woman, on her way to make a religious offering, is raped and murdered. The young girl is played by Brigitta Petterson, her pagan half- sister by Gunnel Lindblom, the avenging father by Max von Sydow.

The rangers spend two tortuous days leading campers out of a forest fire which threatens to trap them all in "The Trek," the second drama on the NBC Television Network's new series "Sierra" Thursday, Sept. 19 (7- 8 p.m., CDT, in color). Scott Brady guest- stars.

Rangers Cassidy and Harper (James G. Richardson and Ernest Thompson) and Ranger Beck (Susan Foster) lose their day off as Chief Ranger Moore (Jack Hogan) reports a fire heading their way and orders them to evacuate campers. These include retired policeman Thomas Walsh (Scott Brady), obnoxious Eddie Crane (Michael Richardson) and the Byer family, Steve and Jane (Robert and Joan Kenneally) and their children, David and Erika (Bob and Pam Keneally). A NEW TV AWARD

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — A new TV award has been announced. Ordinarily I would greet that news with a protracted period of thumb-twiddling. We need more TV awards like we need a rise in prices. As it is, the Emmy currently has about as much prestige as a can of leftover cat food.

But this new award, the Humanitas Prize, seems to be a cut above the others, because of its aims and the men behind it.

Three awards will be given annually, beginning next year. They will go to the writers of the best 90-minute or more, 60-minute and 30- minute commercial TV programs which best communicate "those values which most fully enrich the human person."

Since we could stand some human- person enrichment, this is a brave stand. And it's high time the writer was singled out, because the written word must come first in any show.

Father Ellwood (Bud) Kieser, the Paulist priest who runs the Insight show, is the guiding force behind the new Humanitas Prize. And he has surrounded himself with an executive committee and board of trustees of outstanding men so it should become one of TV's most prestigious awards.

It will be worthwhile to the writer, too — the prizes will be $25,000, $15,000 and $10,000, depending on the length of the script.

Advance word from those who have seen it (and that includes me) is that NBC's Chico and the Man is a sure thing for success this coming TV season. It's witty and warm and wise.

But it may have some problems. It concerns Chicanos. Like all minorities these days they are pretty touchy about how much and what kind of fun can be poked at them.

So he screened it for a lot of Los Angeles' Chicanos. He says that kids from a tough Chicano high school loved it. But some leaders of the Chicano community were not too happy because they felt some of the jokes (such as a continual kidding reference to flies swarming around the Chicano boy in the show) were in poor taste.

"But I pointed out the speeches that were pro-Chicano," Komack says, "and they went away happy."

George C. Scott and his wife, Trish Van Devere, wrapped up their arduous location shooting in the Mexican jungle for their film, "The Savage Is Loose."Then they promptly went home to Connecticut where, Scott says, "we plan to collapse."

"The Sting" is long since an established hit. Yet director George Roy Hill is still working on it. Just a few days ago somebody called his attention to an error — in the race- calling sequences, once the caller referred to the second race, once to the third. So Hill had the scene redubbed — long after the movie won its seven Oscars.
